Kennedy Wins on Housing After Long Senate Fight

Urges Broader Authority for Traffic Patrol

Reynolds Asks Each Assemblyman To Support Bill

MADISON (AP) — Ally. Gen. John W. Reynolds urged Wisconsin assemblymen today to concur in a Senate bill granting the state traffic patrol authority to make arrests on highways for offenses other than traffic violations.

Reynolds sent a statement to each member of the Assembly urging the action.

The Senate passed a bill Tuesday to give patrolmen authority to make arrests for misdemeanors, felonies, transporting a stolen car or fleeing from the scene of a crime.

"The State Legislature could make no finer contribution to the future of good government in Wisconsin than to adopt this law," Reynolds wrote.

Organized Crime Grows
"I say this because I am convinced that organized crime is growing rapidly in Wisconsin and it is essential that the state government have the necessary tools to cope with this problem."

Reynolds called the bill preventing legislation and said it would be effective in preventing organized criminal syndicates from "getting stronger than they presently are."

Reynolds is a Democrat. Both houses of the Legislature are controlled by Republicans.

West Germans Peril Peace, Russia Says

Bonn Government Rejects Protest; British Foreign Office Won't Change View

BERLIN (AP) — The West German government rejected as "artificial and unjustified" today the latest Soviet protests about its activities in West Berlin.

At the same time, a British foreign office spokesman in London said Britain's attitude on Berlin is in no way altered by the Soviet complaints against scheduled meetings of West German parliamentary committees in West Berlin.

Felix von Eckardt, the West German government spokesman, told a news conference the Soviet Union was making trouble only for propaganda purposes.

No Threat to Peace
"Nobody could conceivably treat these activities of our government as a threat to peace," Eckardt said. He added that the meetings of the committees were in full accord with the four-power status of Berlin and thus could not be challenged on legal grounds.

He noted that similar meetings, as well as those of the West German parliament itself, had taken place in the city for years without arousing protests from the U.S.S.R. He said it was not until 1959, when Premier Khrushchev first issued his demand that Berlin be turned into a demilitarized free city, that the Communist bloc took up its present attitude — without the slightest pretense at justification, he added.

Allied officials here shrugged off the Soviet charges as part of a continuous Soviet propaganda war against Berlin's ties with the West.

Only last weekend Premier Khrushchev told President Kennedy in Vienna that West Berlin is a bone that must come out of the Soviet throat. The President replied the West had a right to be in Berlin and intended to stay there.

Embassies Get Protest
The latest Soviet complaint was in notes handed the American, French and British embassies in Moscow. It was made public by the Soviet Tass news agency.

Moscow radio, in a companion broadcast, charged West Germany, with the support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, was trying to undermine the results of the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting.

Bonn announced Thursday night that West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will visit Berlin next month.

Suspects Link Between TV, Delinquency

Bureau of Prisons Chief Hits Shows of Crime, Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — James V. Bennett, director of the Bureau of Prisons, said today he thinks there is a definite causal relationship between juvenile delinquency and television shows dealing with crime and violence.

At a hearing by the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency, Bennett likened street corner pitchman who attracted and entertained his audience with card tricks and magic while he sold them snake-oil remedies.

In his prepared statement, Bennett added "modern television attracts its audience with crime and violence while they sell soap and deodorants." But in delivery, he merely said "modern television has a parallel to the pitchman."

Bennett complained that some television programs depict law enforcement officers as "gauche, stupid and in fact venal at times." He said this hinders the recruitment of officers and damages the morale of those already in service.

Emotional Impact
There is strong evidence, Bennett said, that "exposure to the viewing of crime, mayhem and conflict as a means of entertainment has a deleterious emotional impact on youth and creates the risk of triggering delinquent behavior."

The prison bureau director said surveys at two federal institutions for young offenders — the Ashland Youth Center and the National Training School — showed that about one-fourth of the inmates believed such programs "were in some way responsible for their conflict with the law."

He said some television executives, advertising agencies and sponsors have tried "to cavalierly slough off the problem or assume an air of injured innocence." Bennett called this "an evasion of their responsibilities as citizens and a disregard of their trusteeship as temporary holders of a part of the public domain."

Confesses Neglect Of Three Children

WAUKESHA (AP) — Mrs. Ardis Villwock, 36, whose 15-month-old baby was found dead in the attic of the Villwock home in Muskego March 13, pleaded guilty Thursday to contributing to the neglect of three of her 11 children.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Her husband, Raymond, 42, is undergoing a pre-sentence investigation after pleading guilty to a charge of neglect.

Authorities said Barbara, whose body was found in the attic, died of malnutrition and pneumonia.

Final Vote Postponed Till Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy wrapped up a smashing victory on the $6.14 billion housing bill in the Senate early today, but only after a bitter fight through a marathon 13½ hour session.

Final passage of the omnibus measure — one of the big five on the President's 1961 legislative list — was put over until Monday. But the Senate adjourned at 1:35 a.m. after the bill had been advanced to a stage at which no further changes are possible.

Thus on Monday there will be only talk and a seemingly assured vote to pass the bill and send it on to the House.

Caught by Surprise
In its final Senate form, the bill contains practically all of the housing programs asked by Kennedy.

But this turned out to be the case only after administration lieutenants battled for hours to reverse a severe defeat suffered Thursday afternoon at the hands of a Democrat.

Administration forces had been knocking down attempts by Republicans to chop the bill but they were caught by surprise at a maneuver by a Democrat, Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee.

Raps Mortgage Plan
Gore won, 49 to 44, adoption of an amendment cutting from the bill the entire moderate income family program advanced by the administration. This is one of the new features of the bill on which Kennedy has set great store.

In its original form, it sought to aid families in the $4,000 to $6,000 bracket by offering no-down-payment.

Charges 'Confusion'

Goldwater Wants U. S. Objectives Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said today the nation desperately needs a presidential statement of U. S. objectives in the cold war and a priority list to carry them out.

Goldwater accused President Kennedy and his administration of following "a policy of almost calculated confusion" in giving the country "Government-by-crisis."

"At a time when our people are in critical need of the uniting force of strong leadership with a clear purpose and a consistent policy, the New Frontier is changing signals so fast the scouts are confused," Goldwater said at a conference of United Press International editors.

Changed Position
"It came into office firmly opposed to summit meetings based on 'vague speculative hopes,' but the President has already been to Vienna to talk with Khrushchev. "It came into office deploring 'eleventh hour responses to Soviet-created crisis,' but it has been engaging in just such responses in Laos, Cuba and elsewhere in the world."

Because the Communists have an over-all design to rub out freedom and control the world, Goldwater said, they have been able to "call the tune while we dance." "We have been swatting one fly at a time and now the room is full of flies. We have been content with a patchwork, outmoded foreign policy which reeks of hesitation and uncertainty and ineptitude and which rests on an infantile belief that—short of a clearly defined shooting war with Russia—we can expect our adversary to negotiate and deal with a semblance of honor."

Woman Held As Embezzler Of $430,000

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — A grand mother is in Butler County jail today, charged with embezzling over $430,000.

She is Mae H. Wheeler, 53, a former officer of the Butler Workingmen's Loan Association for 20 years and the wife of a well-off steel company planner.

Mrs. Wheeler was charged last March with embezzling $5,014 from the association, but subsequent investigation revealed a much larger shortage. She was re-arrested Thursday.

State Police Sergeant James Barger said at Thursday's arraignment: "The books were a mass of mistakes, omissions, false entries, fictitious withdrawals and fictitious share loans."

Mrs. Wheeler pleaded innocent to 117 counts.

Mrs. Wheeler was secretary-treasurer of the association for 20 years. Under her direction, the operation grew from $215,000 in shares to $13 million. She made $6,000 a year. Her husband, a production planner for Armco Steel Co., makes $10,000 a year.

List of Captives Sought

Committee Requests Castro to Act Swiftly on Tractor-Prisoner Trade

DETROIT (AP) — The Tractors for Freedom Committee is ready to send Fidel Castro the 500 tractors he asks in exchange for 1,200 invasion prisoners as well as a team of experts to negotiate the deal. The next move is up to him. The committee called the Cuban prime minister Thursday night that "we are prepared to move with dispatch and ship the first consignment of 100 tractors not later than two weeks from today, to be followed by additional consignments of tractors in lots of 100 until the total of 500 are delivered."

Quick Action Sought
It cautioned Castro, however, that "we trust you are equally prepared to move with dispatch to release the prisoners. We remind you of our insistence that you make available to us without further delay a complete list of the 1,214 prisoners involved so that we can develop satisfactory procedures for verifying the identity of those released."

"We would recommend that the International Red Cross be asked to handle the details relating to the release of the prisoners."

The proposed trade, which has been controversial, got more criticism meanwhile.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., scored the proposed exchange as "blackmail."

Goldwater, appearing on the Jack Paar television show (NBC) Thursday night, said "a government has to be dealt with by a government—not by a group of citizens, however well-intentioned."

The committee, formed after Castro made his trade offer May 17, said it would not send one of its more prominent members to Havana to negotiate as Castro had asked but would send a six-member technical committee of agricultural and tractor experts.

It said that if Castro approved of the offer the team of experts would arrive in Havana next Monday. It urged Castro to reply as soon as possible.

Castro had asked that any delegation to Cuba should contain one of the principal members of the committee "preferably Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt or Milton Eisenhower, whose names, because they are better known in political spheres, would contribute to the solution of the matter."

Mrs. Roosevelt is committee honorary chairman. Dr. Eisenhower, educator and brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, is a co-chairman. Special Committee

Walter P. Reuther, also a co-chairman and president of the United Auto Workers Union, said, none of the prominent members would go.

The committee told Castro it had "designated a technical committee to discuss with you or your representatives the details of our proposal related to types of agricultural tractors and attachments."

3 Small Boys Die In Freezer Chest

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Three small boy playmates climbed into a freezer chest while at play and smothered when the lid closed on them late Thursday.

The dead children are Keith Loughry, 6; his brother, Glen, 4, and a next door neighbor, William Anderson, 4. Officials said they had been in the chest an hour.

The freezer was on the rear second floor porch at the Loughry home. It had been there a week, but was not yet in use.

The boys were missed by Mrs. Thomas Loughry, who started a search with neighbors. One of the latter, Beverly Egonis, found the children. The searching women were directed to the porch by the Anderson boy's father, Harry, who said he'd last seen them at play on the porch.

The children apparently were dead when they were lifted from the chest. Police, firemen and rescue units nevertheless worked over them for an hour using oxygen and mouth to mouth resuscitation in an effort to revive them.

East German Family Sentenced as Spies

BERLIN (AP) — A family of three has been sentenced to a total of 23 years imprisonment for espionage in East Germany, a private Western intelligence agency reported today.

Information Bureau West said the Rostock district court convicted Karl Walter, 60, his wife, Anneliese, 40, and Monika Aschmann, 18, Mrs. Walter's daughter, by a previous marriage.

They were alleged to have engaged in military espionage for almost eight years. The Walters were given terms of 10 years each while the daughter received 3 years.

Cub Scouts of Chicago's Drexel Park Presbyterian Church are all eyes and fingers as they are turned loose in a candy factory. After touring the plant they were turned loose in a room filled with trays of various confections and told they could take away all they could carry.

Gromyko Meeting With U.S. on Laos

Red Minister 'Empty Pocketed' On Arrival at Geneva to Renew Stalled Peace Talks

GENEVA (AP) — U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman meets Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today in an attempt to get the stalled international conference on Laos moving again.

Harriman, chief U. S. delegate to the conference, will deliver a note sent from Washington with president Kennedy's approval urging the Russians to help establish an effective cease-fire in Laos.

Britain, co-chairman with the Soviet Union, postponed the conference indefinitely yesterday because of cease-fire violations. But both East and West expressed desire for agreement.

There had been some hope Gromyko was bringing new instructions from Moscow when he arrived in Geneva last night for the first time since Kennedy met Premier Khrushchev in Vienna. Gromyko quickly dashed hopes

New Move in Congress for Summer Recess

New York House Member Proposes Annual Vacations

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Speaker Sam Rayburn weeks ago snorted "nonsense" to the suggestion that Congress take a summer vacation the idea appeared doomed.

It still may be, but its adherents die hard.

One of them, Rep. Robert R. Barry, R-N.Y., has two children and the belief "that the warmth and support of a family are vital to the efficiency of many congressmen."

U. S. Won't Surrender Asia's Free People to Reds, Johnson Says

Ready to Fight if Necessary, Vice President Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today the United States will not be pushed into surrendering the free people of Asia to communism.

Johnson declared "it is not riding a tide of inevitability in Asia" and "it can't be stopped in its tracks."

He said it was his judgment that "freedom in Asia is worth fighting for" and that the American people once they understand take the necessary steps to maintain the tremendous stakes are the freedom of nations that have not fallen under the Communist yoke.

Johnson added "The Communists are hoping we will surrender. In an address prepared for delivery before a conference of United Press International editors, he told the leaders of the front line of freedom here today in nations like Viet Nam, Thailand and Pakistan. It is our obligation to ourselves that those lines will not be breached or pushed back."

Delinquent Not Sick but Bad, Speaker Says

State Corrections Unit Member Speaks At Welfare Meeting

ELMHART LAKE (AP) — The juvenile delinquent is not sick, he is bad, Dr. Seymour L. Haleck, director of psychiatric field service for the State Division of Corrections said Thursday.

Delinquents should be held responsible for their behavior, Dr. Haleck, of Madison, told one of seven panel discussions at the 25th annual conference of the Wisconsin Public Welfare Association.

Some 300 delegates are attending the statewide meeting.

"Delinquents are sick only in the sense that their behavior may be caused by internal personality stress which at times leads them to anti-social behavior," Haleck said. "All delinquents are responsible for their acts and we should treat them as responsible."

Reply Held on Reds' Refusal To Obey Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department today reserved comment on the announced intention of the American Communist party to defy the Supreme Court decision that it register as an organization controlled by the Soviet Union.

But individual officials left no doubt about the department's readiness to go to the legal mat again with the party and its members over compliance with the court ruling.

Actually, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's aides are still engaged in an analysis of the somewhat complex Supreme Court actions of last Monday. They upheld the registration section of the 1950 Internal Security Act, and also the conviction of a party member on grounds he was an active member of an organization advocating violent overthrow of this government.

Navy Will Try to Orbit Rocket With Three Satellites

CAPE CANAVERAL Fla. (AP) — A Thor-Able Star rocket will try next week to orbit three satellites at once, including the first operational prototype of the Navy's transit navigation satellite.

The 80-foot two-stage vehicle will aim the bundle of satellites at a 500-mile-high circular orbit. If this is achieved spring devices will separate the trio so they will whirl about the earth in slightly varying paths.

Governor Signs Bill For State School Aid

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Gaylord Nelson signed a bill Thursday authorizing payment of state aid to school districts for pupils attending high schools outside their districts on a tuition basis.

Under terms of the measure, newly created or reorganized districts lacking classroom space, but we must redouble our efforts to be certain that the aid is really tailored to their needs and that it gets to the people who need it."

For 4 Legs, Not 2

Specialist Says Back Made for Quadrupeds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Perhaps the basic reason President Kennedy is suffering from a strained back is that "the good Lord made the back for quadrupeds and not for bipeds," a specialist said today.

He told a reporter that in the evolutionary process, through which man assumed an erect position and began walking on two legs, "everything was compensated for except the back."

"Too much strain has been placed on the human back for the position that man has assumed," declared the doctor, who asked to remain anonymous.

"The human spine," he said, "has an angle or curve to it that makes it susceptible to strain because of man's erect position. The vertebrae in quadrupeds are evenly balanced due to the way they carry their weight on four legs."

GOP Weakens on Nelson Nominees

Carley, Giessell Only Ones Which Won't be Confirmed by Senate

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Republican partisan lines are disintegrating in the GOP-controlled state senate on the issue of Democratic Gov. Nelson's patronage.

It now seems likely that all except a handful of the governor's principal appointments to key state administrative and commission offices will be confirmed by the Republicans, although earlier there was a strong tendency to reject most of them by refusing to take them up for confirmation votes. That strategy would have kept Republican incumbents in their offices, and given them hope of getting new appointments if a Republican won the gubernatorial election next year.

Caucus Signs

That such a plan has been indicated after the Republican senate caucus Thursday. Reliable accounts have it that Gov. Nelson is now likely to be denied Republican senate approval of only E. C. Giessell, his choice for state auditor, and David Carley, the director of the Department of Resource Development.

Nelson used Giessell, veteran state budget official, in an effort to dump J. J. Keliher, state auditor for many years who has close personal ties with some of the top men of the Republican legislative caucus.

No Chance

Carley has virtually no chance of winning the senate's approval, although his failure to be confirmed won't necessarily interfere with his office-holding. Senators declined to approve him two years ago, whereupon the governor reappointed him after legislative adjournment. Nelson will probably do so again after the present legislative adjourns.

Significantly the Republicans are no longer linking Joe E. Nussbaum, commissioner of administration and Nelson's key state-house lieutenant, with Carley and there now appears a good chance that Nussbaum will be confirmed two years after he took over his office.

Large Changes

That the Republicans are weakening in their bias toward Nussbaum was shown this week when Democrats moved to withdraw his name from committee, and although they failed, attracted two Republicans to their side. One of them was Sen. Gerald Lorge of Outagamie County, who said he admires Nussbaum and wants to confirm him in his office.

Other Republican regulars are likely to show the same reaction when the nomination comes up for a roll call vote.

Republicans had regarded bleakly some of Nelson's recent choices for key state regulatory offices, and notably the nomination of J. K. Kyle, a professional leader of cooperative organizations, as state department of securities chief. But the cooperative movement is rallying behind Kyle's candidacy. Republicans from rural sections have

K of C Unit to Elect Officers

KAUKAUNA — Election of officers will be held by the Knights of Columbus at 8:15 p.m. Monday at St. Mary Church hall. A discussion will be held on the building program and plans made for a golf jamboree.

Traditionally been sensitive to such pressures and Kyle's confirmation to replace Director E. J. Samp of the securities regulatory department is now regarded as probable.

Conservation Unit

The Republican senate majority has apparently not yet decided finally what action to take on Nelson's two nominations for the state conservation commission, James Smaby of LaCrosse and Jack Schumacher of Shawano. But the chances are that Smaby will be endorsed with comparatively little difficulty.

Democrats in the senate have been heckling the Republican majority for days for its failure to take action on the governor's principal state officer selections.

Yesterday Sen. Robert Travis of Plattville, GOP leader, replied that the nominations for the most part will be reported out of committees and voted upon during the next week. His announcement was taken as a signal that the Republican caucus had been unable to hold its votes for the earlier plan to bottle them up in committees without action.

Merchants to Send Auto Caravan to Fair

A caravan of bannered automobiles will move down College Avenue July 13 and on to Outagamie County Fairgrounds at Seymour.

About 1,000 Appleton merchants and their families will ride the caravan, on their way to celebrate Appleton Downtown Merchants Night at the fair.

The night is the plan of the Appleton Downtown Retail Association. It is designed as a merchant greeting to the people of the county.

Band Concert

The Merchants Night evening grandstand show will open with a concert by the Appleton City Band, Jerry Glaeser, fair committee chairman, said at a meeting of the association Wednesday.

A group of good will ambassadors, which will include Appleton business leaders, will be sent ahead to the fair.

The problems that College Avenue retailers will face when widening of the avenue begins were brought up Wednesday. The body resolved that it would plan early to eliminate obstacles to business

Street Work Resolution Gets Approval

Property Owners Present Arguments At Public Hearing

A resolution authorizing special assessments for street improvements was passed by the Appleton City Council Wednesday, after property owners were heard for and against the work.

Objections were made against paving McDonald Street from Wisconsin Avenue to the Chicago North Western Railroad tracks and Telulah Avenue from Tracy to Calumet Streets. Asphalt surfacing was objected to on Fremont Street from Oneida to Carpenter Streets and on Alvin Street from Wisconsin to Glendale Avenues. Property owners along Mary Street, from Pacific to East North Street, spoke against grading and graveling.

An attorney represented property owners on one side of McDonald Street, saying the improved street would not be of any benefit to them. The property is enclosed with a permanent fence and is leased by Fox River Tractor Co. for storage, he said. It's only point of ingress and egress is from Wisconsin Avenue. The attorney said he realized the improvement would be of value to property owners across the street. Representatives of Fremont Street property owners said they feel the street is in good enough condition and does not need resurfacing.

Spokesmen for Telulah Avenue owners said pavement is needed to eliminate a severe dust problem in summer. "Some women aren't even doing any spring cleaning this year, because it doesn't do any good," one commented.

One objector said those who want the street are in a minority. Another spokesman said this is not true. Some of the objectors are those that own land but do not have homes built.

Ald. Gerald Wagner asked for a separate vote on resurfacing Alvin Street. A 15 to 3 vote approved a new surface. Some property owners have signed against it.

Assessment Question Residents along Telulah, between Tracy and Fremont Streets, wanted to know why their assessment was going to be 78 cents a front foot more than for the rest of the street.

Ald. Thomas Schneider, in whose ward the street is, said the extra charge will be made because that portion of the street needs to be excavated seven inches to make room for the concrete. The remainder of the street, which was graded and gravelled later, was constructed for concrete pavement and will not need to be excavated, he said.

MADISON (AP)—In a quick vote that showed a big chink in Republican solidarity, the Wisconsin Senate withdrew from committee and referred to calendar the appointment of Maurice B. Pasch of Madison to succeed former Gov. Oscar Rennebohm on the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents.

The 17-13 roll call saw five Republicans stray from party ranks to support the motion offered by Democratic Floorleader William Moser of Milwaukee.

They were Sens. Reuben La Fave of Oconto, J. Earl Leverich of Sparta, Allen Bushy of Milwaukee, William Drahm of Neenah, and Chester Dempsey of Harland.

The defections prompted Assistant GOP Floorleader Robert Knowles of New Richmond to issue an immediate caucus call. Gov. Gaylord Nelson made the Pasch appointment last Friday. It did not reach the Senate until Tuesday.

In a plea for rejection of Moser's motion, Sen. Peter Carr, R-Jamesville, said the Senate Education Committee he heads had not had time to schedule a public hearing on the appointment.

Outdoor Living Show Draws 'Good Crowd' at Opening

The Outdoor Living Show at the Valley Fair Shopping Center drew a "good crowd" at its opening Wednesday, according to Shopping Center Secretary and Manager James Vospers.

Vospers said that at least as many people attended as had seen the Valley Fair Boat Show. "Despite the weather," Vospers continued, "the merchants were pleased with the sales for the first day." The show, which runs through Saturday, is featuring merchandise dealing with all phases of "Outdoor Living." Displays included are boating equipment, sporting goods and sports wear, trailers, and camping equipment.

In conjunction with the show a charcoal artist, Arnold Didrickson, is at the Shopping Center drawing sketches of customers. Didrickson specializes in children, and can turn out a drawing every five minutes.

The Kennedy Farm Bill

The administration's farm program now is in hearing before committees of both the House and the Senate. Apparently the provisions are pretty well understood by all of those concerned with farm legislation but quite obviously there is no agreement among them as to what the effects of the measure will be.

The heart of the bill is the section which provides for the establishment of a new farm program for individual commodities. This is the section under attack and the section which also is very warmly defended by the Sec. of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

The bill does not impose controls upon any commodity but sets up ways in which controls may be established at the option of the producers. The farmers interested in any particular commodity could ask the secretary of agriculture for a production and marketing plan. The secretary would then select the committee of farmers to recommend a plan for the commodity.

The committee could select any one of the methods approved in the bill for this purpose. For example, controls might be based on acres or on the production in pounds, bushels or bales. Marketing helps might be supplied through price support loans, incentive payments, government buying, establishment of marketing orders under plans now familiar in connection with the marketing of fruits and vegetables which might be authorized as well as production payments by which the farmer would be reimbursed if the price of the product fell below a certain level.

Acting upon the request of the committee, the secretary of agriculture would draft a plan and submit it to Congress. If Congress did not veto the plan in 60 days, and if the president approved, the plan would be submitted to a referendum of the farmers producing the commodity. If approved by at least two-thirds of the farmers voting, the plan would go into effect.

Sec. Freeman has urged this upon Congress as an example of democracy in action. He points to the farmer-elected advisory committee consulting with the secretary of agriculture on the plans and to the fact that a consumer representative will participate with the committee making the recommendation and the proposal will then be reviewed by Congress and finally approved by two-thirds of the producers. He says, "The democratic process is called into play at every stage. It would mean less, not more government in agriculture."

He claims, in fact, that the measure would cut the cost of the farm program and would bring the supply into line with the actual needs and thus reduce the billion dollar a year bill for handling, interest and storage in the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau, is in open disagreement as to the results of this measure. In an interview with the U. S. News & World Report, Shuman says that if this bill is passed "we are going to have a regulated, subsidized, controlled, comfortable peasantry." As for the democratic process being used throughout the proposed agricultural bill, Shuman says that the so-called farm committees will be appointed by the secretary of agriculture and furthermore the secretary of agriculture will say who can vote on the question. He makes it quite clear in the interview that the process of democracy is, in his opinion, scarcely involved at all in this proposed program. He says it is provided in the act that "two-thirds of the members of each committee will come from the producers of the commodity who are nominated by the ASC—Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation—committee. These committeemen are per diem employees of the Department of Agriculture and they have an interest in continuing and expanding government programs."

Asked about the committee system, Shuman said he had some experience as a member of the first "Triple A" committee in his county under the Roosevelt administration. He said he saw the exercise of power to determine what was done and who was on the committee. He added, "It was pretty easily worked because very few farmers took the trouble to attend the meetings. The county committee often called up the folks they wanted to be at the township meetings—frequently, only committeemen or employees showed up."

There is a farm problem, he concedes, but adds, "One of the principal causes of the trouble in agriculture is unwise government programs. Until we move away from government determination of price and allocation of the right to produce, we are going to continue to have a severe farm problem."

Price fixing, he says, is no cure for the farmer's lack of bargaining power. He points out that labor and management in the steel industry had sufficient power to get together and fix prices but in the end they lost 50 per cent of their export market. And he says the same thing happened to farmers when they fixed the price of cotton. They lost 24 per cent of the market.

Shuman was reminded that some older farmers today are pointing out there were no supports or controls of farm production in the 1920s but the free market didn't work out very well at that time. In reply, he said that the trouble in the 20's was just as it is now, a matter of government interference. But, he says, it was interference of a different kind. The government at that time called in its wartime loans to foreign countries and at the same time increased the tariff structure so that the Europeans couldn't sell to Americans. This had the effect of knocking Americans out of the market for about 10 per cent of their total agricultural production. This was a form of government intervention and it damaged American markets and depressed farm prices.

So the proposals for aiding American farmers are up for discussion again. Men like Mr. Shuman know very well that there is little hope of getting a genuine farm relief measure through Congress largely because elections following close upon the heels of each piece of legislation means that congressmen are more interested in pleasing the farmers temporarily than they are in settling the problem which has been before Congress since the close of World War II.

School Costs Weighed Against Achievement

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Some time ago an account of a meeting held at Manawa on school district integration appeared in your paper. During the discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of integrating someone referred to a report of the Agricultural Department in which it stated that instruction in reorganized districts costs $12 more per elementary pupil per year than in non-reorganized districts.

The complete report of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Wisconsin on School District Reorganization has just come to my attention. I presume it is the report referred to at that meeting, and I feel that in all fairness to the proponents of integrated school districts more of this report should be quoted for the benefit of your readers. The following is taken from the report:

"During the first six years of school, instruction costs averaged $142 per pupil per year in reorganized districts, and $130 per pupil per year in non-reorganized districts.

"But this higher cost in reorganized districts is reflected in greater achievement — boys and girls in reorganized schools had total test scores of 276 and 322, respectively, compared to 266 and 288 in non-reorganized districts. Thus for the extra $12 per pupil per year in instruction cost, achievement totaled 10 points higher for boys and 34 points higher for girls in reorganized districts.

"One must judge for himself whether this is a sufficient increase in learning to conclude that reorganization is worthwhile."

It seems to me that the argument, "that the small schools and limited educational facilities were good enough for us and our fathers; therefore they should be good enough for our children", can be likened to the following situations: a farmer using farming methods used 50 years ago competing in the farm markets today; the auto manufacturer producing the same car he did 30 years ago to compete with the 1961 models; and the merchant trying to stay in business with the limited variety of merchandise available 40 years ago.

Our children will have to compete for their places in the world, and the competition will be stiff.

Mrs. Vernon Truesdale Medina

country, when composed of the thirteen states or colonies, unanimously signed the Declaration of Independence which states that one of our inalienable rights is the pursuit of happiness. If you wish to live in a town, hamlet or on the prairie, it is your choice. If you wish a 40-room mansion or a 1-bed-room bungalow, that is your choice to make. If you wish to have a dozen children or none, that is also your choice. You have the right to select your occupation, eat the foods you like, and decide how you will spend your wages.

The condemnation laws, in my opinion, are sufficient to take care of those cases where dwellings become health and sanitation or fire problems, if properly pursued. If you argue that it is a slow and inefficient method, kindly realize you are dealing with a person's right of tenancy. When persons, no matter how well-meaning, infringe on those rights, it should be met with stern opposition, since the

Governor Giveth but Then He Taketh Away

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — To many of the businessmen who have been complaining for years about the burdens of the personal property tax upon those who have inventories on May 1, Gov. Nelson's proposal for a 50 per cent cut in their liability may have a hollow ring.

For the governor now proposes to replace the revenue equivalent of that promise of relief by repealing the deductibility for state income tax purposes of federal taxes paid by individuals and corporations within Wisconsin.

For many a businessman, this will be merely an exchange of tax liability. He will put into his pocket some money saved from the personal property tax levy, but he will promptly withdraw it to pay a higher state income tax bill.

Originally Gov. Nelson said he intended to replace the revenue equivalent of a personal property tax reduction by asking for an additional across-the-board income tax increase on individuals.

Without any explanation, he has dropped that idea. The guessing is that response to his first income tax increase proposal was none too cordial. To ask for a still higher bracket by bracket boost might be politically perilous.

POLITICAL EFFECT

The repeal of the income tax offset, considered purely as a practical political matter, may appear to have some advantages from the gubernatorial viewpoint.

In the first place, the mass of the electorate probably won't notice, if it notices at all, until next April 15. The chances are good, moreover, that the man who takes the standard deduction won't even notice this little change in his deduction privilege.

The issue is important to those who already are in the higher income tax brackets. They may notice, but they are not as powerful numerically or politically.

The governor's proposal will have the effect, if it is enacted, of increasing the progressivity of the state income tax scale, something that had been thought was being avoided on a bi-partisan basis.

Perhaps more significant, it amounts to a proposal for a higher corporation income tax—something that also has been avoided lately on a bi-partisan basis. Corporations now are permitted to deduct, on their state tax payments, their federal tax bills up to 10 per cent of their net incomes for state tax purposes. To repeal that privilege is the same as proposing a higher corporation income tax—something that no political party has proposed for many years, and that no Republican or Democrat has proposed this year in a straight-forward way.

DIFFICULTIES

The governor supported the constitutional amendment paving the way for selective personal property tax relief, and early in April, when the amendment was approved in a referendum, announced that he would sponsor implementing legislation.

The fact that it took him two months to come up with something is suggestive.

Constrained as he is to avoid direct sponsorship of a sales tax as a means of revenue replacement, the problem of providing the means for personal property tax relief are about equal to the chances that it will resort to a tax on church steeples.

The fate of the personal property tax reduction campaign is wound up inextricably with the campaign for the enactment of a general sales tax.

At the moment, the chances for a sales tax remain about what they were six months ago—50-50. The next month will tell the story of tax revision, in terms of the personal property tax and all the other issues bound up with the tax problem.

Large Scale Approach To Model Railroad

Genuine Holes in the Cheese

Swiss cheese packaged in Green County, Wisconsin, in the future will have genuine Swiss cheese holes and not those spooned in by women packaging the cheese. The cheesemakers agreed to this after a conference with officials of the Federal Food and Drug Administration. The FDA was threatening to seize a shipment of 2,700 pounds of Swiss cheese which the FDA claimed contained artificially made holes.

There is little doubt that the cheese processor packagers in Monroe have been adding a few holes to the slices of Swiss cheese before packaging them. The holes were put into the margin of the cheese slices because housewives who buy Swiss cheese like it with a lot of holes. Unfortunately holes in the Swiss cheese, which occur in the making of the cheese, appear much more frequently near the center of the block than at the edges. The cheese at the center and at the edge is of the same quality, according to the cheesemakers. To make up for the deficiency of nature, women have been trained to scoop or spoon holes in the edges of the Swiss cheese block. Some women are so expert that the purchasers cannot detect them and buy the cheese at premium prices.

What can be wrong with scooping holes in the edge of the Swiss cheese slices since the quality of the cheese is the same? Is it any different from scooping the hole in a doughnut, for example?

The officials of the FDA say it's illegal without explaining why. There appears to be some sense to their statement that the cheese packagers have been putting slices of cheese with fewer holes in the middle of the package and putting the most appealing cheese, that is the piece with the most holes, on the outside. There is something deceptive about that although it is hard to see why cheese packagers would be caught in such a trap when all they had to do was punch a few more holes in the center pieces.

One of the big goals of the Kennedy administration is to improve the income of the farmers. Cheese manufacturers say that under this new ruling it will be necessary to trim off more of the edges of the cheese to get to the premium part full of holes. The part trimmed off, which now may run as high as 10 per cent, will be ground up and reprocessed and sold at a lower price, although one result of this may be a lower price to the farmer for his milk.

Since the value of the holes in the Swiss cheese appears to be all in the heads of the customers it's a little difficult to see why cheese packagers should be prohibited from pleasing their customers by simply scooping a few holes.

Reapportionment Is Defeated

The state assembly recently voted down a resolution that would have given the State Supreme Court power to reapportion Wisconsin's political districts if the legislature failed to act.

Assemblyman Richard E. Peterson, R-Waupaca, chairman of the judiciary committee which recommended rejection of the proposal, said the bill was "just one more step to allow the Supreme Court to take over the duties of the legislature."

Assemblyman Peterson must know that the Supreme Court could not take over this duty of the legislature unless the legislature failed to act. He must know also that it was a move by the people of Wisconsin to compel the legislature to do its duty. It was that and nothing more. The people of Wisconsin living in metropolitan areas by the tens of thousands are not going to be satisfied very long to have their representatives told what to do by legislators representing only hundreds in sparsely settled areas.

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

Kennedy tells the nation of his travels. It's true he almost sat in Mrs. Khrushchev's lap, but he wants it understood that at no time was he in Khrushchev's pocket.

Harry Truman signs on for 26 TV shows. He will grapple with history — and already the odds are three-to-one against history.

Republicans are irritated. They say the people refuse to blame Kennedy for things that go wrong — and they insist Eisenhower holds the patent on this arrangement.

This is the time of year when the commencement orator looks into a sea of young faces and wishes he had gone into the cap-and-gown business.

The Vienna conference advanced the two-China policy. Khrushchev will keep Red China as an ally, but he concedes the west has quite a dish in Mrs. Kennedy.

The Supreme Court whacks the Communist Party in two decisions. The court whacks the 15-year-old anti-communist speeches of Winston Churchill — and has followed them with all deliberate speed.

and the consul refused to grant it.

The next morning the ship was gone and no one knew when it got out of the harbor or how it passed the battery without having been seen and fired on.

The Spanish law is that no vessel shall enter or depart from the harbor between sunset and sunrise. If I could be permitted to offer my private opinion, I should say that it did not depart without the knowledge and permission of the Spanish government.

When two other American steamers passed into the hands of British subjects, their captains applied to the British Consul for New Orleans clearances and obtained them. The American Consul remonstrated with the British Consul and would not submit to this until he could be shown a bona fide bill of sale. This could not be produced.

The American Consul gave notice that the ships could leave the harbor, but he would send a war steamer to take them. They left and the war steamer was sent immediately in pursuit.

Confederate Flag's History Clear; Prussian Designed it, South's Grey

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Next Wednesday is the birthday of the American flag, but—strangely enough—another banner flies over parts of our country and this is the Stars and Bars of the Confederate states which is to be seen these days everywhere in the South.

House

That flag, too, has a history and the history is more clearly defined than that of Old Glory which is swathed in not-so-dependable tales and fiction. But the story of the Stars and Bars, ripe for the telling in this centennial year of the Civil War, is reasonably documented.

Actually, the flag of the Southern Confederacy is only one of four which were adopted. The first of them bore three broad, horizontal stripes—two red and one white—and its union consisted of seven stars which represented the number of states which had seceded from the Union at that time.

As the war ran on other flags were adopted, too. Each of them was called "The Stars and Bars." But the final flag, the one which is now flown in the Southland, was a battle flag carried by Gen. Beauregard. This banner is a square of red with a St. Andrews cross running through it. The cross, sometimes called "the Southern Cross" is of blue and contains 13 white stars.

The first of the four Confederate flags, however, was lifted aloft amid great pomp, on March 4, 1861, and the Mobile (Ala.) described the occasion in part like this:

"Miss L. T. Tyler, one of the fair descendants of the Old Dominion and a granddaughter of the venerable ex-president of the United States had been elected to perform the principle part upon this occasion. When the time arrived for raising the banner, Miss Tyler steadily and with heart throbbing with patriotic emotion, elevated it to the summit of the staff, cannon thundered forth a salute, the vast assemblage rent the air with shouts of welcome and the people of the South had for the first time a view of the Southern flag. . . . Long may it wave over a free, prosperous and united people."

Austrian Uniforms

The man who designed that flag also designed the uniform of the Confederate Army. It is a historical peculiarity that the familiar grey and butternut uniforms of the Confederates was a near-copy of the uniform of a small group of Austrian soldiers which the designer, a foreigner, had observed marching one day in Verona, Italy.

Although there had been some

... it was while passing through Verona, Italy, which then belonged to Austria, that I saw the uniform which some years later was to furnish me with a design for the Southern Confederacy uniform.

"In Verona one day the notes of martial music came to me. On searching I found that a party of sharpshooters belonging to the Austrian army was passing.

"What splendid soldiers and what noble uniforms, was my involuntary comment as I saw them. . . . they were dressed in the striking uniform of grey and green trimmings. . . .

"I returned to America in 1859 and again located in Marion. . . . Mrs. Napoleon Lockett, a beautiful southern lady of an old Virginia family and the wife of a wealthy planter lived at Marion. . . .

"Soon came the first notes of war. Mrs. Lockett was as loyal a daughter as the South had, and was much interested in its affairs. She came to me one day and said, 'Mr. Marshall, we have seceded and the Confederate government wants a flag. Will you make us a design? It must not be too much unlike the United States flag, but different enough to be distinguished at a distance.' At once I took pencil and paper and made three different designs.

Mrs. Lockett thanked me for the flag designs. Then she came back and added, 'we also want a design for a uniform, Mr. Marshall. Can't you suggest one?'

Remembered Austria

"The thought came to me of the grey uniforms I had seen worn by the Austrian sharpshooters. . . . I made several rough sketches, indicating the gray color. . . .

"It did not occur to me then that I had done anything worthy of note. I simply made the sketches at the request of Mrs. Lockett. I knew no more about them from then, until I found that the uniforms and one of the flags had been adopted by the Confederacy."

So it was that a foreign-born Prussian artist designed the Confederate uniform from a foreign contingent of sharpshooters, and a flag which is—strangely enough—still flying in the American Southland.

Kennedy Has Little Sun With Clouds

Few Achievements Can be Noted In Foreign Policy, With Reds

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last half of this century is like living through a perpetual thunderstorm, waiting for the next lightning bolt.

And for President Kennedy, now nearly five months in office, there's been steady rain on the roof, with few patches of sunlight.

He's gotten along well with Congress. But he inherited multiple dilemmas overseas and he's solved none of them.

It is difficult now to point to a single Kennedy achievement in foreign affairs unless perhaps in establishing better relations with the European allies.

Take a look:

1. He inherited the problem of Fidel Castro's Cuba—a constant trouble spot for the United States, if not a menace.

Kennedy approved the rebel invasion against Castro. It ended in disaster. And just because of it and because the United States lost prestige and is unlikely to try rough stuff again soon, Castro looks more solid than ever.

Inherited Dilemma

2. Kennedy inherited the dilemma of Laos where the Communist-supported Pathet Lao forces were slowly taking over the country. They stepped up their pace since Kennedy took office and he has found no way to stop them.

3. He hoped through a conference with the Russians and others at Geneva at least to get a cease-fire in Laos and agreement on a neutral government. The Communists have made hash of that notion in a way most bitter for Kennedy.

Just this week, in his TV broadcast immediately after returning from a talk with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, Kennedy said they had agreed Laos should be free and neutral and that both wanted a cease-fire.

Break Down

But in Laos the pro-Communists forces kept fighting until at Geneva the United States called their action a "blatant violation" of attempts at a cease-fire. The Geneva talks are in danger of breaking down.

4. At Geneva, also, Kennedy had hoped to negotiate with the Russians an agreement ending nuclear testing. The Russians made so much hash of these talks that agreement now seems impossible.

5. In South Viet Nam, where the government is supported and supplied by the United States, Communist guerrillas from North Viet Nam are putting the southern government in increasing jeopardy by stepping up their warfare.

End Democracy

6. In South Korea, where the United States supported and supplied the civilian government which it seemed to think was doing all right, Korean military leaders threw out the civilians and took over.

One of their main excuses: To wipe out "corruption." The net result, even though the new Korean military rulers express friendship for the United States, is an end to democratic government.

7. In the Middle East, Iran right next door to the Soviet Union but helped by the United States, looks more wobbly than ever. Here, too, there was a government shake-up to end corruption.

Kennedy told congressional leaders that Khrushchev predicted to him that Iran would be lost to the West, although disclaiming any Soviet part in it.

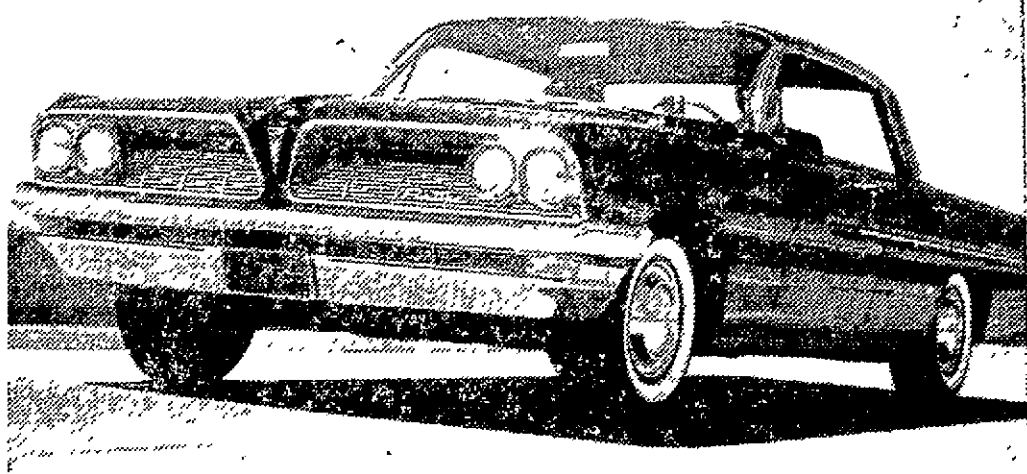

8. In his TV talk Kennedy made

'The Gazebo' Will Open Holiday Players Season

New Summer Theater Company
To Present 11 Shows in Manawa

MANAWA — "The Gazebo," a mystery comedy, will open the 11-week season of professional theater here June 20, Richard Goldsmith, producer of the Holiday Players, has announced.

The Players are renovating the Manawa Theater, an idle cinema palace, for their presentation of summer fare. Goldsmith said an entire refreshment area will be established adjacent to the theater and variety entertainment will be provided.

Goldsmith said cooperation has provided the theater with two important pieces of equipment that were headed for the junk pile. The Palace Theater, in Goldsmith's home town of Waupaca, is being razed. Goldsmith, who worked at the Palace as a youth, was able to salvage the cyclorama and some drops.

Stevens Point State College, the producer's alma mater, was junking its switchboard for a modern installation and Goldsmith became heir — at least for the summer — of the old facilities.

Stage Problems

The salvaged equipment eased some of the Players' problems, he said, but their biggest one has proved to be the theater itself, constructed and equipped for the showing of films.

This week there was a major moving job. The heavy, bulky sound equipment that gave the films their voice took up most of the playing area for the actors.

The stage, not made for live actors, is narrow and the back wall is filled with conduits and pipes that cut its depth even more.

Modified Arena

To adjust, Goldsmith said, the Holiday Players will perform in a modified arena manner. A six-foot extension is being made to the front of the stage, thus the use of the traveling curtain is impossible. Like arena productions, there will be no falling curtains to mark the end of scenes. Blackouts will be used instead.

Jack McKenzie, who made quite a name for himself as a scenic designer and stage technician at Stevens Point State College, will devise modern sets making use of lights and levels, usually against a sky drop, to provide the maximum playing space.

Goldsmith and McKenzie have been joined at Manawa with the advance guard of the Players' troupe — Judy Becker, Goldsmith's wife, leading lady Jan Oliver, and Gerald Shields, the director.

Auditions Held

They say they have found Manawa friendly and enthusiastic.

The Vanguard of the Holiday Players has arrived in Manawa to prepare for the city's first season of professional summer theater. The troupe has set up housekeeping in a farm house north of the city. Judy Becker, left, and Jan Oliver attempt some impromptu interior decorating while the men, Producer Richard Goldsmith, left, Director Gerald Shields, center, and Jack McKenzie, scenic artist and technical director, appear lost in a planning discussion.

More of the proposed 19-person resident company are expected in a few days. Tuesday auditions for extra parts were thrown open to neighborhood actors.

The resident company has set up an indoor camping sort of housekeeping in a vacant farm house north of the city.

The season is made up of well-tried Broadway hits plus a classic melodrama, "Deadwood Dick," to fit into the Lions Club rodeo promotion over the Fourth. The melodrama will run from June 28 to July 9, the only two-week run on the schedule.

The other shows are "Come Back, Little Sheba," "Tender Trap," "Under the Sycamore Tree," "The Mousetrap," "The Rainmaker," "The Beautiful People," and "Light Up the Stars."

College Names News Director

DE PERE (AP)—The appointment of Miss Judy Santilli, a 1961 journalism graduate of Marquette University, as director of the St. Norbert College news service has been announced.

Miss Santilli succeeds Len Wagner, who resigned to join the news staff of the Green Bay Press-Gazette.

In a related move, James Vanden Boom, director of alumni relations, was given the additional duties of sports information director. Wagner handled both the news and sports positions.

Goodman Swings Out At Disneyland

Crowds Cheer Solos, Bandleader Says It's Like Old Days

BY BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

ANNAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Can B. G. make it with another generation?

You'd think so, watching Benny Goodman swing out at Disneyland. Such excitement hasn't been seen since the '30s, when the famed piper led America into a whole new world of music.

"It's amazing," says Benny, obviously pleased with this new turn in his long career.

Sensational Results
He recently organized a big band composed of a few oldtimers but mostly young musicians. The first date was Disneyland over Memorial Day weekend, the first booking of a name attraction at the park.

The results were sensational. The crowds packed 20 deep before the bandstand and couples were jitterbugging — not rocking, not rolling — jitterbugging.

One of the amazed observers was Walt Disney himself. He told me: "Benny said it was just like the old days. His manager kept looking at his watch and warning Benny that he was going over time. 'Don't worry—I'll pay for it,' Benny said, and he played 15 minutes longer."

B. G. was back on the bandstand last weekend, and I came on a sentimental journey to catch his music. It was indeed like the old days. Benny played the licorice stick with the same facile style, and the crowd cheered every solo.

Still youthful at 52, Benny bounced and grinned as he led the numbers. They were strictly vintage stuff—"Sing, Sing, Sing," "Jumping at the Woodside," "And The Angels Sing," "One O'Clock Jump," etc. The youngsters ate it up. And for us ex-rug cutters—wow!

Benny has stuck mostly to small combos in recent years, but he said he'll continue with the full band if the demand continues.

Indoor-Outdoor Living Promotes Physical Fitness

A great new era of robust indoor-outdoor living that will contribute more physical fitness and family pleasure through gardening is predicted by the American Association of Nurserymen.

The indoor-outdoor living concept has grown steadily in the past decade, but it will grow far more rapidly in the next few years, it is said. Total sales of trees and shrubs have hit a new peak every year for the past 15 years and are increasing.

More indoor-outdoor living today is getting more people outdoors at work and play, with more healthful results, it is stated. Expert landscaping and planting will bring an end to the drabness of much present-day housing, in which the land is not conserved with plantings designed for living.

Money Spent on Homes

This new indoor-outdoor living will make home life so rich and attractive that people will spend much more of their incomes on their home properties rather than spending on things that take them away from home, often without any lasting benefits, the nursery group states.

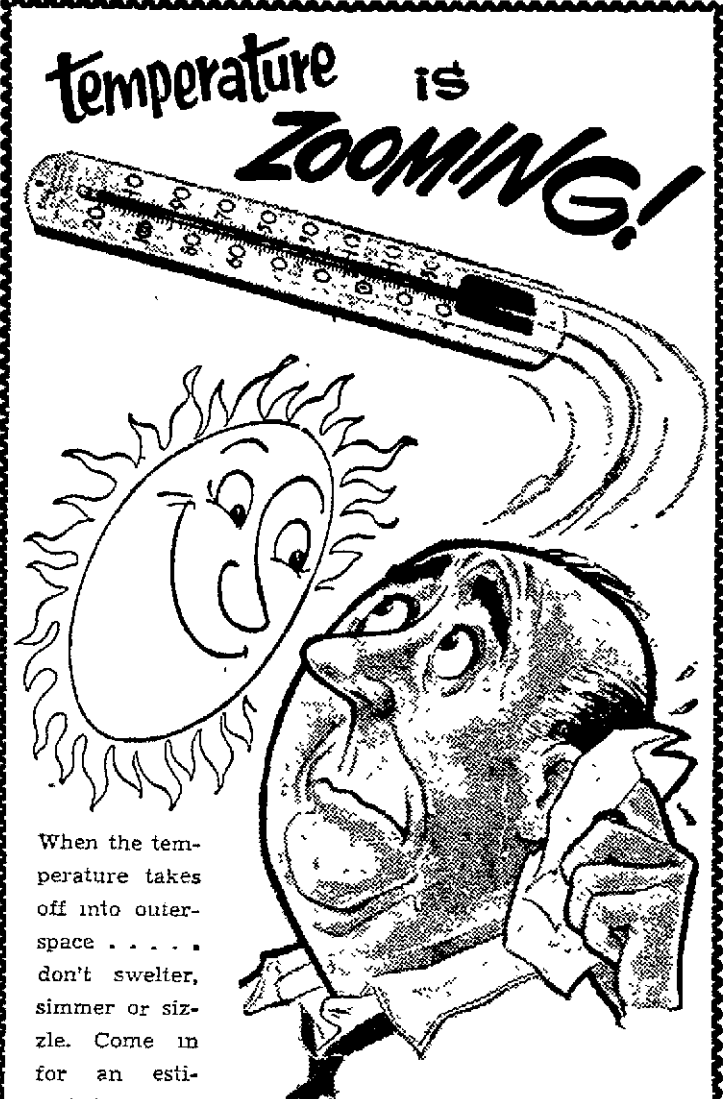

To maintain housing values, to prevent the ruinous waste of some housing developments which degenerate into slums in 10 or 20 years, housing must be planned so the whole residential area, including the land, will remain beautiful and well-preserved for the longest possible time.

When the land is not improved for living by proper planning and planting, home values depreciate at much faster rates. The indoor-outdoor concept conserved the land as well as the house and uses both to live fully and wholesomely.

"It is, however, more than increasing property values," the association adds, "it is full realization that we cannot continue to move to new housing developments forever — there is not enough land available. The time is here right now when we must conserve all land, especially in and surrounding urban areas."

Much can be accomplished by planning housing for more permanent values and better living, it is stated. The indoor-outdoor idea helps greatly in accomplishing this. Moreover, it is the most satisfying and healthful way to live for practically everyone, with more wholesome family fun, as well as more physical fitness through the gardening effort, which, the association concludes, "does more for the gardener than it does for the plants."

Do It Yourself
Infrared Phone Can be Workers' Time Saver

BY J. RALPH DALZELL

Author of Books on Home Building and Repair

Voice communications systems between houses or other buildings, on farms, in sports and wherever needed are a convenience and time saver. This column has presented two previous articles on home signaling devices which has aroused extensive reader interest. The following information is the result of further study and research.

Infrared radiation is the invisible energy given off by any warm or hot object. This energy is completely harmless and can be used to transmit and receive voice communication up to several hundred yards with telephone-like clarity. When this principle is used for voice transmission, we have what can be called an infraphone (shown in picture 1).

In picture 2, the various parts of an infraphone are identified and can be associated with like parts in picture 1. A sending and receiving phone operates on flashlight batteries. In operation, messages are spoken into the mouth piece (shown next to the operator's mouth in picture 1), and received by a small earphone placed in either ear.

When talking to another person with an infraphone, as with a telephone, that person must also have an infraphone. The operation is simple. If the other person can be seen with an infraphone, it is possible to talk with him, night or day, if the two infraphones point to each other (as shown in picture 3). Simply close one eye and aim through the sight (see pictures 1 and 2) on top of the unit. Center the other person's unit directly in the center of the sight. Press the trigger in the hand grip and start talking or listening. At night, the transmitter (see picture 2) will have a red glow which can be seen over a long distance. Thus aiming in the dark is not difficult.

When using infraphones from house to house, house to barn, or elsewhere where the units can be stationary, mount them on camera tripods (shown in picture 4). Once mounted in proper position, aiming will be automatic.

Then it is only necessary to squeeze the trigger when the unit is in operation. When the units are used (as shown in picture 1) just a little practice assures good communication.

Suppose, for example, the units are to be used for communication between two houses, or between a house and a distant barn or shop. A simple buzzer system (shown in picture 5) can be installed to call the other party to the phone. Buzzer A is placed in one house or building and buzzer B in the other. Then, using a transformer and wires C, D and E between the houses, either push button can be pressed to activate the buzzers.

For voice communication over distances up to ten miles, a two-way citizens band transceiver is used. These transceivers do not require government examinations, and a license to operate can be secured for the asking. Complete kits, ready for assembly, are available. The cost is reasonable and assembly easy for the handyman.

For voice communication between rooms or floors of a house, including a detached garage or

Less Water Being Pumped

Ban on Sprinkling,
Rainfall Ease Strain
At Appleton Plant

The amount of water being pumped by the Appleton Water Department has dropped between 2 million and 3 million gallons a day since the ban on sprinkling and Wednesday's rainfall.

The water department reports it is pumping at the rate of 8 million gallons today. The average is 5½ million. During the past weekend the plant pumped 10 million a day.

Some property owners are continuing to sprinkle lawns and gardens, it was reported, because Wednesday's 1.48 of an inch of rain was not sufficient.

The ban on sprinkling is in effect from 5 to 8 p.m.

City Atty. Don Jury has ruled that the 5 to 8 p.m. hours, stipulated in the ordinance permitting restricted use of water, is prevailing time.

The ordinance, written long before daylight time was approved by the Wisconsin Legislature, says central standard time. But this has been ruled incorrect for the present situation.

Before 5 p.m., after 8 p.m. and on Sundays residents may sprinkle as much as they please.

During the restricted hours, residents on the even numbered sides of streets may sprinkle Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Those on the odd numbered sides may sprinkle on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Small Ranch Has Real Luxury

BY JULES LOH

A medium size family with a medium size income will find large size advantages in this attractive three-bedroom ranch. There are only 1,178 square feet of living area (not counting the 248 square foot garage), but House of the Week design B-69 has features normally reserved for larger and more expensive homes.

"Living problems are the same whether you have a large home or a small one," said architect Herman H. York, who designed B-69. "I've tried to incorporate as many solutions as possible into the economical compactness of this house."

One such feature is the extra lavatory which shares economical back-to-back planting with the main bathroom.

The extra bath not only serves as a private adjunct to the 11'4" by 14' master bedroom, but with its second entrance it is convenient to the kitchen and rear terrace — just the thing for outdoor entertaining or children playing in the backyard.

York's design provides excellent circulation for a house of this size. The extra bath contributes to it, serving as a quick passage to the kitchen or rear entrance from the master bedroom.

Other features which aid circulation are the entrance from the garage direct to the 11'4" by 12'6" family room, the other three entrances to the family room — off the living room and kitchen and through sliding glass doors — and the entrance vestibule.

B-69 Statistics

This compact house offers three bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths in 1,178 square feet of living area, not counting the 248 square foot garage. Its dimensions are 47' 10" by 33' 6" and it has a full basement.

Exterior features vertical boards on the side walls, with some use of stone or brick in front to give added appearance of length. Garage extends out in front, preventing a box-like effect and enhancing roof design.

Dimensions of B-69 are 47'10" wide by 33'6" deep, well suited for a 60' wide lot.

Family Room

The family room is two steps lower than the rest of the house, setting it apart from the kitchen and living room as a private dining area if desired, but at the same time allowing it to function as a spacious unit with the kitchen.

A railing between the kitchen and family room provides a balcony effect for a dining area, which the 9' by 16' kitchen can accommodate easily. The kitchen also is well planned as a control point for supervising play both indoors and out.

Storage space is no problem in B-69. It has a full basement, plus ample bedroom closets, a coat closet off the entrance vestibule, and a linen closet convenient to the bathroom.

Stone Front

Architect York has done some tricks with the exterior of the house too, giving it an appearance of a larger home.

He extended the garage beyond the front of the house, preventing a box-like effect too often found

A Partial Stone front on this compact ranch makes it appear to be a larger home. The roof line is broken by extending the garage, to avoid a box-like look.

A Balcony Effect between the kitchen and family room is achieved by separating the two rooms with a railing. The family room is two steps lower than the kitchen, and opens onto a terrace through sliding glass doors.

in smaller homes and giving it an attractive roof line.

York suggests using some brick or stone on the front to give the house an added appearance of length. He extended the brick beyond the end of the house in the form of a low wing, which contributes to the effect and also provides a handy hiding place for garden hoses, sprinklers and the like.

The side walls suggested are vertical boards, but a shingled horizontal line could be substituted if preferred.

For added interest, you also could use a different material for the cantilevered bay section which forms the bedroom seats. "However," said York, "you shouldn't use more than three different materials on the side walls."

Oshkosh Annexes 18 Acres of Land For New Plant

OSHKOSH — An 18-acre site on the north side of Oshkosh between U. S. 45 and the Chicago and North Western and Soo Line tracks was annexed to the city at Wednesday's council meeting.

Occupying part of this property will be the new plant of the Marquardt Co., a millwork and lumber company.

The council also set July 19 for a public hearing on the vacating of two unopened streets in the Kriz property purchased by Winnebago County for the airport project. These are Iowa Street and Twenty-third Avenue west of the Soo Line tracks.

The council also said it had no objections to the proposed plan of Oshkosh City Lines, Inc., for transportation of students to the new Oshkosh High School and Lourdes High School.

Berlin Firm Gets Oshkosh Contract

OSHKOSH — Bids opened Wednesday for a west side intercepting sewer and an outfall sewer at the disposal plant brought a low bid of $163,116 by C. F. Kalupa, Inc. of Berlin. The only other bid received was $291,870 by Central Contracting Corp. of Oshkosh. The project includes 2,774 feet of a 27-inch sewer and 3,230 feet of a 24-inch sewer.

Use Proper Material To Finish Concrete

The question often arises as to where cement paint should be used and where a heavy duty waterproofing compound should be used. Cement paint is prescribed for masonry surfaces where there is no resurfacing problem and any voids or spaces are small enough to be covered by material with the consistency of paint. Heavy duty surfacers are designed for covering imperfections in porous masonry such as unfinished concrete, masonry block, rough brick and stucco.

Petition Filed For Sidewalk on Sullivan Avenue

KAUKAUNA — The city clerk has received a petition, signed by residents living on Sullivan Avenue, for extension of sidewalks from Tenth Street to Seventeenth Street on the east side.

According to the petition, a few property owners on Sullivan have neglected to install sidewalks, making it necessary for children on their way to school to cross the same street twice in order to have a continuous walk.

The petition will be presented to a meeting of the Board of Public Works Monday night.

Workshop Integral Part Of New Home

Handyman Needs Special Room for Do-It-Yourself Jobs

Homeowners are expected to spend up to $20 billion for modernization, repairs and maintenance this year, and they'll do many of the projects themselves, according to a home modernization specialist.

Most of the major remodeling jobs, such as adding a dormer or a couple of rooms, are for the professionals, but fixing a fence or finishing a spare room in the attic are suitable tasks for the do-it-yourselfer, says Harold J. Baker.

"With more and more men owning power tools and using easy-to-handle building materials, do-it-yourself projects continue to boom," Baker claims.

"In fact, many of today's home builders are including workshop space in new homes to accommodate the handyman. A few years ago development builders seemed to concentrate heavily on building finished recreation rooms that took up almost all the basement. Now, many are designing the recreation rooms to leave an area that can become a workshop," he said.

Backyard Fountain Can Give Aesthetic Setting

By GEORGE E. CREED
Landscape Architect

Almost any water feature adds interest to a landscape whether just a trickle falling into a shallow basin or a large pool complete with fountains.

However, if you want to get the most from such a feature and not waste money on its installation there are a few points to consider.

First, place the feature where it will afford maximum pleasure. Pools in general are best located out in the open where they may be seen from many points of view. Note that the small pool in the sketch is visible from any place in the backyard and also from the house.

The location of a water feature is important both for aesthetic and for practical reasons. Draining and supplying it with water should also be considered. The farther your feature is from a source of water the more pipe you must lay to supply it. This is equally true of drainage.

For small pools and minor water features the simplest and most economical arrangement is to equip them with re-circulating pumps. With these the original water, which may be initially supplied from a garden hose, can be used over and over with only occasional replenishment to take care of spillage and evaporation.

The small pool shown is supplied with water directly from the house. Its drainage is taken care of by a line emptying into the house roof drainage system. This is satisfactory for a small pool, but it is not recommended for large ones. Before installing a drain line of this sort you must be sure that the lowest point in your pool is high enough above the point of entry into the drain system to allow for sufficient fall — 1/4 inch for every 10 feet of drain line is a safe minimum.

'Kimet' Honors Former School Board Member

Joseph Dupont Noted For 21 Years Service To Village Education

KIMBERLY — The 1961 edition of the Kimberly High School yearbook, "Kimet," is dedicated to Joseph Dupont, who resigned last year after serving 21 years on the Board of Education.

The dedication praises Dupont for his service to the community and educational institutions in the city. One page of the book is in Memoriam to J. R. Gerrits, former supervising principal, superintendent, and business administrator, who died of a heart attack early in May and to Miss Janet Wells, eighth grade teacher, who died of a heart attack on the school steps as she was going to classes last fall.

Yearbook Symbol
The editors selected a circle as the "Kimet" symbol, to represent the final product of a good education, a well rounded graduate.

Each section of the book is represented by one sector of the figure, until the circle is complete. The volume has 64 pages with a gold and white cover.

Miss Janet Weronke was faculty advisor for the book while Mary Ellen Mills was editor and David Hamann and Janice Vanervenhoven assistant editors.

Other students responsible for various sections were Marilyn Mitchler, Terry Sue Meyer, Alan Hietpas, Karen Yunk, Judy Vanervenhoven, Thomas Roovers, Kenneth Smits, David Manley, Jo Ann Gossens, Carolyn Wydeven, Lois Vandenberg, Diane Versteegen and Kathy Weyenberg.

Basement Best

Baker maintains that the best place for a home workshop is in the basement because the usual concrete floor makes a stable base for power tool stands. There is no vibration on a concrete basement floor as is almost inevitable when large power tools are operated on an upper floor.

It's also possible to enclose a basement workshop so that the amount of noise which penetrates upstairs is minimized. Installation of fiberboard acoustical ceiling tile or walls of gypsum wallboard will help reduce noise penetration of power tools in operation," he said.

Many new homes are built on slab foundations, without basements, but homeowners can put a workshop in a utility room if there is extra space or in the garage.

Many builders have been putting extra space into garages for a workshop.

"Wherever the workshop is located, its primary function is for maintenance or modernizing," Baker added, "which makes it an integral part of a house."

Woman Loses Suit on Loss Of Her Hair

GREEN BAY (AP)—A Circuit Court jury held Wednesday that a firm was not responsible for the loss of hair by a nurse who blamed one of the company's permanent wave kits and originally asked damages of $35,000.

The jury said the Gillette Co. "was not negligent in producing a chemical product harmful to human use." The firm argued that the nurse suffered from a fairly common disease of area baldness, and it was coincidental that she lost her hair shortly after using the home permanent.

The suit was filed 18 months ago by Mrs. Kenneth Schneider, a 31-year-old registered nurse. In closing arguments her attorney asked $10,000 damages.

Mrs. Schneider testified that all of her hair except for a thin fuzz fell out and broke off within a week after her sister-in-law, a licensed beautician, applied the permanent shortly before Christmas in 1959.

Mrs. Schneider also testified that she wore a wig from March of 1959 until the following November. She claimed embarrassment, humiliation and mortification.

Menasha Man Pays $20 Fine On Two Charges

Robert Schultz, 26, 206 Chute St. Menasha, has been fined $20 by Acting Municipal Judge Stanley A. Staird on disorderly conduct and battery charges.

Appleton police arrested Schultz after the sister of Shirley Krieglstein, 20, 517 1/2 N. Appleton St., called them and said that Schultz had forced Shirley into his car and driven off with her. Later, Shirley's father called the station, police said. The father said Shirley had called him, was crying and asked for help.

Someone called police from Dairy Queen Store, 734 W. Wisconsin Ave., and said Schultz had dragged the girl out of the store and hit her. Police arrested Schultz as he was walking with the girl away from the store.

3 Assemblymen In Area Back Annexation Bill

Rural Legislators
Defeat Measure
Backed by Cities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Only three assemblymen from the Fox River Valley and its environs this week supported an annexation bill ardently endorsed by the city administrations of the Valley and most of the other city governments of Wisconsin.

The bill prepared by the League of Wisconsin Municipalities to permit cities and villages to annex contiguous unincorporated territory without a referendum was defeated in the assembly after perfunctory discussion, as was a companion bill in the state senate a week earlier. The vote was 52 to 36.

Only Assemblymen Jerome Quinn of Green Bay, Kenneth Friebe of Appleton and William E. Steiger of Oshkosh supported the measure when the assembly rejected it.

The adverse action removed all chance for liberalizing the annexation procedures of cities during the present session of the legislature, and marked the failure of the most intensive legislative campaign the larger cities of the state have organized in recent years.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson made a last minute effort to aid the bill by issuing a public statement, but it evidently had little effect.

Even some of the governor's own Democratic party joined with a majority of the Republicans from the rural and suburban areas to reject the legislation that cities had described as vital to their orderly and sound territorial growth in a time of rapidly increasing urbanization of the state as a whole.

Trujillo's Heirs Vow OAS Team Free Inquiry

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Slain dictator Rafael Trujillo's political heirs have assured the investigating committee from the Organization of American States a free hand for their inquiry.

Augusto Arango of Panama, the head of the OAS mission, told a news conference President Joaquin Balaguer and Foreign Minister Porfirio Herrera Baez had promised their government's complete cooperation at a meeting Thursday.

The mission came to Ciudad Trujillo Wednesday to determine if the Dominican government is making good on its promises since Trujillo's assassination to end repression and lay the basis for a democratic system.

Arango said his group's first step would be to visit all political prisoners and their relatives.

Mail Rate Increase Could Wipe Out Postal Deficit, Day Asserts

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Postmaster General J. Edward Day says a mail-rate increase could eliminate the postal service's $900-million annual deficit.

The former Los Angeles insurance executive, interviewed Thursday, proposed one-cent increases for first-class and air-mail postage and hikes on all other classes of mail.

"We are asking Congress for $741 million more a year," Day said. "A total of $430 million of this amount could be raised simply by increasing first class and air mail."

The rate increase would cost the average citizen less than one-half cent a day, he said.

Most of Gary Cooper's Estate Goes to Widow

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gary Cooper bequeathed the bulk of his estate, valued in excess of $1 million, to his widow Veronica. The actor also made provision for lifetime care for his mother.

The screen star died of cancer May 13. His will, filed for probate Thursday, made these other bequests:

Ten thousand dollars to the Motion Picture Relief Fund; $5,000 each to a brother, Arthur, of Indio, Calif., a nephew, Howard Cooper, and a niece, Georgia Burton of Marion, Ohio, and $1,000 to Our Lady of Gethsemane Abbey, Louisville, Ky.

In addition to his widow and mother, Cooper left a daughter, Maria, 23.

Adenauer Hopeful For Disarmament

BON, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said Thursday he considers some progress in disarmament possible now that President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have met.

"I am now confident that in the next few years controlled disarmament can come about," the chancellor said in a speech. "We must be firm and move ahead in unity with the free peoples of the West."

President Kennedy and President Fulbert Youlou of the Republic of Congo pose at the White House with elephant tusks given to the president by Youlou, who is in Washington on an informal visit. Kennedy gave his guest a bust of Lincoln. The African, 44, wears a priest's cassock.

ment, 40-year mortgages to buy homes, and similar-term, low-interest rate loans to non-profit groups to build apartments.

Gore attacked 40-year mortgages as unsound and impractical. Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., floor manager for the bill, defended them as the key provision in the measure designed to aid "poor folks" through low monthly payments.

After much oratory and lots of jockeying in the cloakrooms, Sparkman finally devised a substitute which got the provision back into the bill by a 47 to 42 vote early today.

The only significant concession he made was to require a down payment on the house. This could amount to $555 on a $15,000 home, the maximum price allowed.

The formula calls for 3 per cent down on the first $13,500, or $405, plus 10 per cent on the amount above $13,500, or $150 in the case of a $15,000 house. It is identical with the down payment requirements in regular FHA financing in that price bracket. In the existing system the 10 per cent requirement applies up to $18,000, then jumps to 30 per cent.

Back Compromise

Thirty Republicans and 19 Democrats voted for the Gore amendment, 41 Democrats and 3 Republicans opposed it.

On the reversal, 43 Democrats and 4 Republicans voted for the Sparkman compromise, 27 Republicans and 15 Democrats remained in opposition.

Various senators were absent for one or both votes. However, the key switches to favor the substitute after supporting Gore were by Democrats Frank Church of Idaho, Russell B. Long of Louisiana, and Stuart Symington of Missouri, and by Republican Hiram L. Fong of Hawaii.

Capehart Defected

On other major votes during the long session, the administration easily beat back two efforts of Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind.,

Cubans Can Go to School in U. S.

Castor Declares

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro said today Cuba is open to Americans and Cubans are free to go to the United States—"even to go to American universities to see if they can be brainwashed there."

The prime minister spoke at the closing session of the leftist assembly of the Union of International Students. He made no mention of the tractor-for-prisoners deal in his two-hour speech. The revolutionary leader beat off foreign news agencies for their reports on the Cuban situation and declared "Revolutions are the most misunderstood events in the history of the world and history is made not by news agencies but by the revolutionaries. We have never said we are Communists. This is a name that has been given to us. This is a socialist revolution."

Dominican Officials
Term Report False
On Machine-Gunning

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Dominican officials today termed "fantastic" a published report that Rhadames Trujillo, younger son of the slain dictator, machine-gunned a crowd of political prisoners.

The report appeared in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which said that Rhadames went berserk the day after his father's assassination and was ordered held in preventive detention by his brother, Rafael Trujillo Jr.

Kennedy Ends Probe Against Gen. Walker

The administration did suffer a defeat on one provision not directly connected with housing.

This was on a 46-42 vote to adopt a proposal of Sen. Francis Case, R-S.D., striking from the bill a new $100 million program of grants to buy land to create open space in crowded metropolitan areas.

Just before amendments were shut off, Sparkman won approval to add $50 million to the bill for the Small Business Administration to make loans to firms shut down by such federal action as highway construction or urban renewal.

Army Officer May Get Reprimand for Teaching Birch View

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has finished reviewing the Army's investigation of charges that Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker exposed his troops in Germany to propaganda of the militantly conservative John Birch Society.

Indications are that Walker will be dealt what amounts to a reprimand in the report, which is expected to be made public Monday.

There was speculation that Walker will ask to retire. Though only 51, the Texas-born general has completed 30 years of Army service and is entitled to retire if he wishes.

The investigation was ordered by Kennedy in mid-April after the widely read by American soldiers in Europe charged that Walker used a troop information program to subject men of his 24th Infantry Division to "a propaganda barrage" of John Birch Society material. The society is strongly anti-Communist.

The paper also alleged that Walker, in a speech, described as "definitely pink," former President Harry S. Truman, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Eleanor Roosevelt. This too, was investigated by the Army.

Walker has denied both charges.

Refuses to Oppose
Dirksen in Primary

CHICAGO (AP)—Charles H. Percy, industrialist and Republican leader, says he will not oppose Sen. Everett M. Dirksen in the Illinois Republican primary next spring.

Percy, chairman of the 1960 Republican Platform Committee, told a group of business leaders Thursday, "I do not want to cause any rupture within the party." Percy, 41, had been mentioned as a possible senatorial candidate.

Dirksen, who is 65 and is saving his second Senate term, has not officially announced his candidacy, but it is believed he will seek reelection. He served eight consecutive terms in the House of Representatives from 1934-1948. He did not seek reelection but was elected to the Senate in 1950.

Held Up Hotel to Get Money for Income Tax

CHICAGO (AP)—Everett Jackson, 25, a truck driver seized following the $1,000 holdup of a YMCA hotel Thursday, told police he had never done such a thing before, but added: "I needed $111 in a hurry to pay my income tax."

best suited to increase agricultural production and raise the living standards of the Cuban people."

Named to the technical committee were Prof. Roy Bainer, head of the University of California agricultural engineering department, William Bishop, leader of agricultural programs for the University of Tennessee Extension Service, Duane P. Greathouse, director of the UAW's agricultural implement department, C. M. Hansen, Michigan State University assistant professor of agricultural engineering, J. B. Lijedhal, Purdue University professor of agricultural engineering, and Prof. E. W. Schroeder, head of the Oklahoma State University agricultural engineering department. They would be accompanied by a Spanish language interpreter.

The experts said the estimated cost of the 500 tractors would be about $3 million. Castro's regime took the prisoners in the abortive Cuban invasion last April.

The committee said earlier it was not prepared to offer the same type of tractors Castro had asked for. It said Castro wanted a model D-8 which normally is used for construction purposes.

It said 50 of the 500 tractors it was offering can be used for clearing land while the rest were "best adapted to Cuban agriculture."

Cuban Property
In U. S. Can Be Attached

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Cuban property in the United States was up for grabs today by Americans whose holdings in Cuba were confiscated by Fidel Castro.

Circuit Judge Hal P. DeJure Thursday ruled that any Cuban property found in this country can be attached. He found in favor of Jerry Kane, who contended that the Cubans confiscated $22,500 worth of farm equipment in his tractor agency.

DeJure's ruling skirts the so-called foreign acts doctrine under which the U.S. Supreme Court since 1897 has held that the courts of one country will not judge the acts of a foreign state within that country's own territory.

Stravinsky to Return
To Russia on Birthday

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A spokesman says Russian-born composer Igor Stravinsky will return to that country on his 80th birthday at the invitation of Soviet musicians.

Stravinsky, who will be 79 on June 17, left Russia in 1914. He has been highly critical in recent years of the Soviet government's restrictions against artists.

Friends said the famed composer mellowed when informed his works now are widely played in Russia, and that he even drank a toast in champagne to his 1952 trip.

Inviting him were Tikhon Khrennikov and Kara Karayev, composers, Igor Besrodny, violinist, and Boris Yarussovski, newspaper critic. The Soviet artists were here for the first annual Los Angeles International Music Festival.

Plants Get Hungry

Foliage Color Indicates Necessary Nutrients

People turn green with envy, roots and from carbon dioxide taken in through the leaves.

This remarkable process, which occurs only in daylight, is called photosynthesis. In this process, sunlight, acting on chlorophyll (the green coloring in leaves), changes the water-carried nutrients absorbed by the roots and the carbon dioxide drawn in by the leaves into simple sugars and starches which feed plant growth cells.

Plant feeding is like feeding people. Both need easily accessible sources of nutrition in their youth and a continuous balanced diet during their entire life.

More than 15 food elements are considered essential to plant growth. Of these 15, twelve come from the soil, and three are obtained from air and water. The primary plant food elements are nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash.

Nitrogen gives the dark green color to plants; promotes rapid growth and fullness. Phosphorus stimulates early root formation and growth. It hastens blooming and maturity and promotes hardness. Potash (potassium) provides plant vigor and disease resistance, as well as stepped-up food production. Other secondary elements stimulate root growth and leaf development.

New high-strength, soluble plant foods contain all the nutrients needed by a healthy plant in good soil and they are in a form that can be absorbed readily through the leaves or through the roots. Mixed with regular pest control sprays or applied separately as a foliage spray, these nutrients go directly on the leaves where they are taken up rapidly.

Spray Feeding
Soluble plant food can be applied to flower and shrub foliage with ordinary pest control sprayers such as those used on your garden hose.

Spray feeding should be scheduled at two-week intervals during the growing season. When leaf feeding, use a single strength solution mixed according to directions. Early morning or evening spraying is recommended. For root feeding, a double strength solution may be necessary. Soak the soil thoroughly.

$24,650,000 Asked For Improvement of Lakes' Navigation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Association asked Congress Thursday to vote $24,650,000 for Great Lakes area navigation and harbor improvement projects, including two in Wisconsin.

The association asked $75,000 for advance engineering and design for the inner harbor at Superior-Duluth, $400,000 for improvements of the outer harbor at the same place and $250,000 for improvement of the north breakwater and piers at Milwaukee.

The request included a plea for $19.1 million to continue deepening and improving the Great Lakes connecting channels to match depths of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

rections. Early morning or evening spraying is recommended. For root feeding, a double strength solution may be necessary. Soak the soil thoroughly.

Honors, Awards, Clarion, Graduation End Year at AHS

The Halls of Appleton High School were thronged Thursday with students autographing the Clarion, high school yearbook. Editor of this year's annual was senior Barbara Bradley.

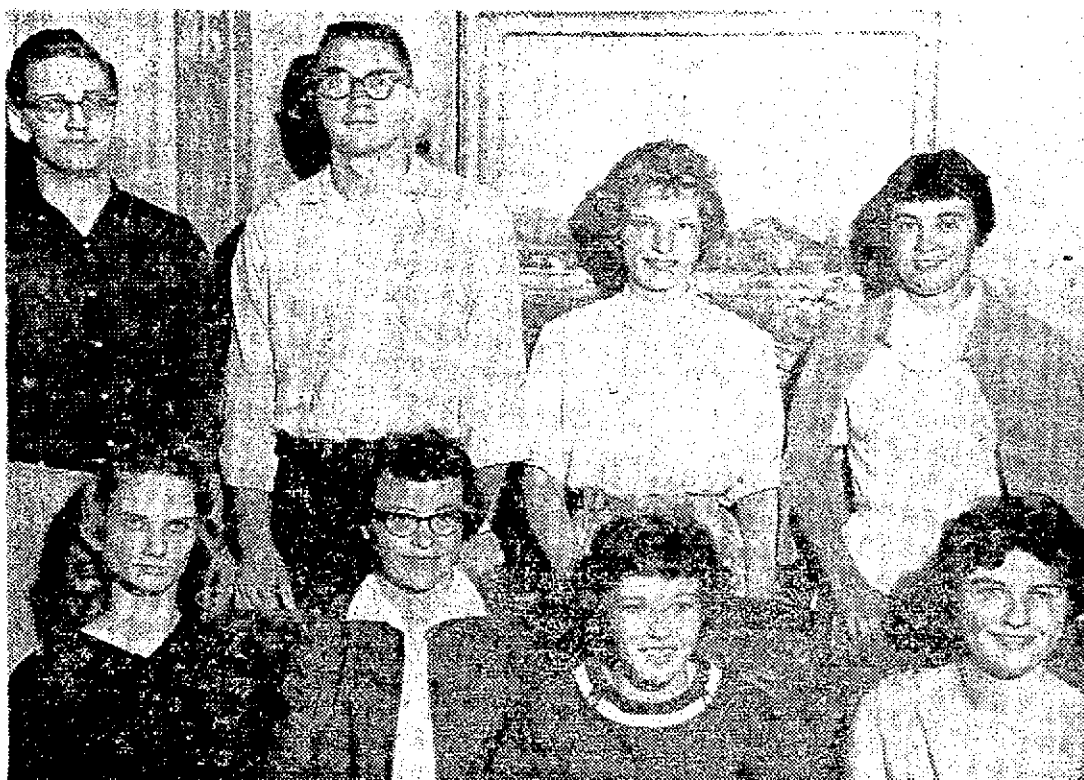

Graduation is that longed for day when young Americans put behind them the good old school days and look ahead to more of the same in strange and new surroundings or to making their own way in the world.

For some the BIG day is just another step in the educational process. For others it means an abrupt change in their way of life.

At Appleton High School that last day of school always is a hectic one. Those who have gone that extra mile in their school efforts are recognized during the awards program in the morning. Then hundreds of students gather in the hallways to sign each other's "Clarion." The last—and biggest—event, of course, comes in the evening, when the organ fills the auditorium with "Pomp and Circumstance" and the seniors take their places on the stage in their last official act as Appleton High School students.

Terrance Bergman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bergman, 908 N. Durkee St., was one of 597 Appleton High School seniors who received diplomas from Victor Sumnicht, president of the Appleton Board of Education.

The Largest Class in the history of Appleton High School overflowed the stage and spilled out into the audience. A total of 597 seniors were graduated at Thursday night's program held in the AHS auditorium. A standing room audience heard Dr. LeRoy Lueberg give the address.

Students Honored By AHS Awards

Scholarships, Trophies, Prizes Presented at Thursday Program

Scholarships, awards, prizes, etc. were presented to Commerce Auxiliary; and Trudy Potter, Appleton Business and Professional Women's Commercial, David Prosser, not shown, received the Thorp Finance Foundation scholarship.

Top winner was David Prosser, who received the Craftsman-ship award, the Thorp Finance Foundation Scholarship and a received the Appleton Galleries' Patterns of Stardust award. Scholarship winners are Maije Dreimane, Riverside Paper Co.; Carol Bellinghausen, AAUW; Lynda Granger, Appleton Coated Paper Co.; Karen Herman, Memorial Hospital Auxiliary; Peter Tilly, Rotary; Peter Behr, Frank Sensenbrenner Memorial; Jeanette Sample, Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary and Trudy Potter, Appleton Business and Professional Women's Commercial, David Prosser, not shown, received the Thorp Finance Foundation scholarship.

Bar Association Names Governors

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Election of Fox Valley lawyers as members of the board of governors of the State Bar of Wisconsin was announced here today by the professional society.

William E. Crane of Oshkosh, Richard E. Johnson of Waupaca and Donald E. Soquet of Green Bay were named governors for their respective districts. They were elected in a recent mail ballot of the compulsory membership association.

The annual election named John W. Kluwin, Milwaukee, as president of the bar, as previously announced.

Appleton Area Employment Rises 2.1%

Expect Another 1.6% Increase by Middle Of July, WSES Says

Employment in the immediate Appleton area increased 2.1 per cent from mid-March to mid-May, according to the bimonthly labor market letter of Fred R. Gehrke, manager of the Appleton state employment office.

Another gain of 1.6 per cent is expected by mid-July, he says.

The gain is due primarily to the usual seasonal production increase, Gehrke says, as order backlogs are accumulated. Most of the gain occurred in textiles, paper, construction and retail trades, he pointed out.

The 60 firms participating in the market letter information service report 12,463 employed in March, and 12,719 in May.

Increased seasonal demands, especially in outdoor work, are expected to be above what would be needed for normal turnover, he said.

Good Supply

The supply of workers is adequate to meet most needs. Only shortages are in isolated skills and some professional categories, he said.

447 Referrals

During May, the Appleton office, which covers all of Outagamie and Waupaca Counties, referred 447 persons to employers, compared to 366 referrals in April and 410 a year ago.

Of those referred, 197 were hired, compared to 127 a month ago and 176 a year ago. The increase in May was due largely to replacements, he said.

The file of those looking for work totaled 1,739, compared to 2,018 in April and 1,293 a year ago. This increase over a year ago was due, he said, to low rate of turnover and more people coming into this area looking for work.

During May the office received notice of 352 openings, compared to 200 a month ago and 252 a year ago. Most of the openings were in the clerical field.

Kaukauna Board Will Discuss Work on Roads

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works will meet at 6:30 p.m. Monday to discuss the possibility of the start of a road improvement program this year and long range plans for continued street improvement for the future.

Mayor Joseph Bayorgoon, in his annual message, has asked the council to consider long range road programs for several years, but other commitments within the budget dollar has made the setting up of a program impossible.

The 1961 budget shows $48,000 for street maintenance, $5,000 for street cleaning, $1,000 for miscellaneous street expenses, $12,000 for street construction and $10,000 for street oiling. The street construction refers to new streets being opened, thus aldermen are faced with the problem of finding funds for a street improvement program this year.

Sanitary Unit Gives Reports

GREENLEAF — The Greenleaf Sanitary Committee held a public meeting Tuesday night at Town Hall to present a progress report on work in the village.

Knaus Construction Co., Green Bay, has been awarded the contract for the sewer project and started work Wednesday.

Notices of the amended payment of the special assessments have been posted at Town Hall, State Bank of Greenleaf and at the office of the town clerk.

District Residents Hear Explanation Of School Plans

WRIGHTSTOWN — A master plan of school districts in Brown County was presented at a meeting of 200 residents in school districts adjoining Wrightstown.

Possibilities of the district joining Wrightstown Joint School District 7 were discussed.

Principal George Cudnoffsky discussed costs of schooling a youth four years and advantages of an expanded district.

Colburn Cheney, Wrightstown school attorney, explained legal means of joining school districts. Represented at the meeting were the towns of Holland, Rockland, Wrightstown and Lawrence in Brown County and Kaukauna and Buchanan in Outagamie County.

Airport Has Biggest Month

Greatest Load of Passengers Leaves In Airlines' Planes

More passengers than ever climbed aboard North Central Airlines flights at Outagamie County Airport in May.

The airline's planes carried 424 riders during the month. North Central's quota for the airport, based on its entire air network, was 375. A daily average of slightly more than 13 persons were passengers.

A total of 1,745 have left the airport this year. Last May only 325 North Central passengers started trips in Appleton. Trips ending in Appleton last month totaled 315. In May, 1960, they totaled 329.

Air freight transported from Appleton increased by more than six times in May. Poundage was 3,602 compared with 546 for the same month last year. Freight weighing 2,808 pounds came into the airport compared to 1,536 pounds last year.

Departing air mail weighed 1,081 pounds and incoming air mail weighed 1,509 pounds. Last May 646 pounds of air mail left and 1,203 arrived.

Air express departures were up to 946 pounds from 735. Incoming freight weighed 2,808 pounds compared to 1,017 in May, 1960. There were 84 flight departures. No flights were canceled because of inclement weather.

Parolee Jailed At Oshkosh

T. F. Hernes Unable To Raise Bond on Car Theft Charge

OSHKOSH — A recent parolee from the state prison at Waupun, Thomas F. Hernes, 33, 614 Washington St., Oshkosh, was charged Thursday with two counts of burglary, one of car theft, and one of hit and run driving.

Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane set 2 p.m. June 14 for preliminary hearing on the first two charges and trial for 2:30 p.m. June 22 on the hit and run charge, which Hernes denied. He was jailed because he could not raise $2,700 bond.

Hernes was arrested by Waupun police this morning after they found him asleep in a car. He had fled from Waupun police after they stopped him for a minor traffic violation earlier.

Stolen Car
A check of the car Hernes was driving then showed it to be a stolen car.

The two burglaries involved Edgar Mueller filling station at 161 Jackson St., Oshkosh, and Abraham and Braun filling station at 150 Jackson St., Oshkosh. About $40 was taken from the Abraham and Braun station plus 39 pair of sun glasses.

Nothing was taken from the Mueller station but the cash register was knocked to the floor and the contents of all the shelves were spilled to the floor.

The stolen car was owned by Roger Penzenstadler, 2013 Doty St., Oshkosh. This car was believed involved in an accident with a car driven by Donald La Pointe, 49, 1864 Doty St., Oshkosh, at 12:42 a.m. today, at the corner of 16th Avenue and Oregon Streets.

Hernes was released from the state prison at Waupun on parole May 2 after serving part of sentences on two counts of burglary and one of car theft. A previous parole on this sentence in 1958 was revoked after several months.

Young State Homemakers Follow Blueprint for Action at Convention

BY KATHY REARDON
Post-Crescent Society Editor

GREEN LAKE — Eight hundred junior and senior high school girls from Wisconsin, members of Future Homemakers of America, wound up their 16th annual state convention Thursday at American Baptist Assembly here.

Election of state officers, presentation of the new state project and an address by Gov. Gaylord Nelson climaxed the four-day parley. "Blueprint for Action" was the theme.

Miss Dorothy Hagen, 17, Wittenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olin N. Hagen, was named state president replacing Miss Bonnie Nelson of New Richmond. Miss Hagen's brother, Orwall, a freshman student at Wisconsin State College, River Falls, is state president of Future Farmers of America.

Lives on Farm
Miss Hagen, who will be a senior at Wittenberg High School, lives on a farm with her parents and brother. She is a five-year member of 4-H and in 1959 placed second in sewing competition in the youth division of Wisconsin State Fair. She has been a member of FHA her three high school years. Last year she was district IV vice president.

She plans to attend St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., to pursue a career in either nursing, teaching or in the welfare line. She is enrolled in the college prep course at high school.

This is the second state FHA convention for the young woman, who lists sewing and music as her favorite pastimes. She is a member of her church choir, the school band, chorus, triple trio, glee club and madrigals, which placed first at state last year and third this year.

Carhop Role
This summer she is working at a root beer stand in Wittenberg to earn money for college. Her hay fever keeps her from pitching in with farm chores. "Whenever I even get near hay I go into a fit of sneezing," she revealed.

She will meet with her officers twice before next year's state convention. In the fall the group will convene at the school of one of the state officers and again in the spring at Hotel Whiting in Stevens Point. Setting up the agenda, next year's state goals and the convention program are done at the executive meetings.

To qualify for a state president, a candidate must have a junior and chapter degree, be a local officer and also state officer.

Other officers elected yesterday include Joan Gordon, Salem, secretary; Dianne Meinholz, Middleton, treasurer; Sylvia Christensen, Oregon, program of work chairman; Mary Breneman, Cambria, parliamentarian; Cheryl Veeger, Casco, recreation leader; and Shirlie Karls, Chilton, historian.

District officers are Eileen Dahlstrom, Ladysmith, and Nancy Wittstock, Clear Lake, district I; Judy Klecker, Spring Valley, and Rose Marie Viergutz, Colby, district II; Donna Swinehart, Lone Rock, and Marilyn Brendum, Westby, district III; Nancy Ann Schaeuble, Wrightstown, and Sharon Parczick, district IV, and Nancy Kretschmer, East Troy, and Janet Dassow, Plymouth, district V.

Miss Charlene Tullberg, Clintonville, was named a candidate for national reporter.

Present Charters
Charters were presented to 24 chapters during the morning session and the new state project, Appreciate Wisconsin, was revealed and explained by Miss Diana Bubholz, Reedsville, program of work chairman. This replaces last year's Food for the Shrewd theme. Ideas for carrying out the project in the home, chapter and school, community, state and as an individual were outlined.

Recipients of the $100 FHA scholarships for outstanding work in FHA were Judy Rodger, Westfield, Miss Bubholz and Ruth Brownlow, Wild Rose.

Wisconsin Homemakers degrees were awarded to Joanne Loren Glessner and Carol Ann McCutchin, Arena; Carol Jean Damm, Janet Holstein and Ann Rebbholz, Columbus; Patricia Mae Vangen, DeSoto; Megan David, Preble; Carol Jean Beightol, Juda; Elaine Brussel, Kewaskum; Helen Rausch, Kiel; Lois Storandt, Mindoro; Helen Gull, New London; Barbara Denk and Renee Schulz, Reedsville; Margo Ann Melchert and Marlene Zibell, Seymour; Judie Glaeser, Sandra Hanson, Beverly Sorenson, Mary Ann Stockigt and Jean Torrison, Valders; Karen Marie Johnson and Cheryl Danielson, Waupaca; Sharon Smith, Westby; Kay Lyon, Westfield, and Miss Hagen.

Sponsoring Group
The Wisconsin Association of FHA is sponsored by the State Board of Vocational and Adult Education, directed by C. L. Greinber.

The state advisory council is composed of Miss Kathryn Gill, Madison, chairman; Mrs. Carol Rankin, New Richmond; Mrs. Eunice Steiner, Bangor; Mrs. Merle Shurpil, Westfield; Miss Theresa Zettel, Reedsville, and Miss Christine Nickel, Madison.

Retiring state officers are Ruth Ann Johnson, Bangor, secretary; Mellene Thalacker, Westfield, treasurer; Ruth Brownlow, Wild Rose, parliamentarian; Diana Bubholz, program of work chairman; Karen Freymiller, Boscobel, recreation chairman, and Patricia Casper, New Holstein, historian. Megan David, Preble, was editor and Miss Hagen vice president of district IV.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson chats with two retiring state officers at the White Dress dinner Thursday which climaxed the four-day state parley of Future Homemakers of America at Green Lake. From left are Nellene Thalacker, Westfield, treasurer, and Bonnie Nelson, New Richmond, president. The new officers were installed in formal ceremonies Thursday evening. Eight hundred girls from junior and senior high school chapters throughout Wisconsin attended the 16th annual convention.

After the formal White Dress dinner Thursday, the girls, members of Future Homemakers of America, gathered in the assembly room of Pillsbury Hall on the grounds of American Baptist Assembly, Green Lake, to head Gov. Gaylord Nelson discuss the goals of today's youth. The girls seated around a pillar are Judy Russ, Charlene Tollberg, a candidate for national reporter, and June Krueger. All are from Clintonville.

Miss Kirk Becomes Bride in Michigan

Miss JoAnne Kirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan S. Kirk, Okeemos, Michigan, former Appleton residents, became the bride of Lt. Lawrence James Strobe at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Chapel of Apostles Methodist Church, East Lansing, Mich. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Strobe, Big Rock, Ill.

The Rev. Wilson Tennant performed the double ring wedding rite.

Mrs. Michael Geehan, Cleveland, Ohio, was the bride's honor attendant. James Adams served the bridegroom as best man. Michael Geehan and Richard Witucki and Raymond Patterson, Pensacola, Fla. performed ushering duties.

The bride is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University. She has been employed as assistant social director of the Illini Union at the University of Illinois. Her husband graduated from Iowa State University and received his Master of Science degree from the University of Illinois. He is in flight training in the United States Marine Corps at Pensacola.

The couple will live in Louisiana while Lt. Strobe continues his training.

Future of Country in Hands of Today's Youth, Says Governor

GREEN LAKE — "The more you must first find out what they are, make from members of families than 12,000 members of FHA in Wisconsin and the half a million organization like FHA and all our of you throughout the United States are part of the most important group in America today," Gov. Gaylord Nelson told 800 Future Homemakers of America at their formal White Dress dinner Thursday evening at American Baptist Assembly.

"The group I am talking about is American youth," he explained, "for you are the ones who will assume the leadership of America in the critical years that lie ahead. What happens to America is going to be up to you."

Very few short years separate you as members of Future Homemakers of America from the time when you will have to be actual homemakers, responsible for the future of your country, he added, noting that the years ahead are the most important and go past quickly.

Praise Goals
He commended the girls on the goals of their program, namely, developing their abilities, learning to meet today's challenges and opportunities, getting to know their neighbors at home and abroad and gaining ideas for productive work in the local chapters of the organization.

"To develop our abilities we position will change, when you have to bear on the challenges and opportunities that confront others will look to you for help. us. Today's challenges and opportunities include conventions delegates to this convention of such as this one—which throw you together, making friends and hammering out a program in a few days' time," he stated. Tomorrow's challenges are greater—jobs, college, homemaking and taking part in community activities. The way you meet them today will have a strong bearing on the way you meet them tomorrow, he offered.

The transition the girls will

Tie Your Opponent In Knots

If you want your opponent to tie himself in knots don't be stingy with the rope.

hand with a trump to the queen and ruffs another spade in dummy.

Right here is where East must start paying out rope. He must not over-ruff dummy.

Play it out mentally to see for yourself that East cannot gain by over-ruffing. That would leave him with only one trump, while South would have two trumps.

If East returns a club—his best defense—South ruffs, and then ruffs another spade in dummy. Then he leads a trump to his own hand, drawing East's last trump. The spades are set up, and South easily wins the rest.

Discards Diamond
Instead of over-ruffing, East patiently discards a diamond. South returns to his hand by leading a trump to the king. Watch him turn pale when he sees that the trumps fail to break.

South leads another spade and ruffs with dummy's last trump. Once more East must refuse to over-ruff. By this time East and South are down to one trump each. If East over-ruffs, he would leave South in full control.

When East discards another diamond, declarer is dead. He can take the ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond with his last trump. South leads a good spade, and East finally ruffs. Then East's last club takes the setting trick.

The Duke of Kent and his bride, the former Katherine Worsley, walked down the aisle of Anglican York Minster Cathedral, York, England, after their wedding Thursday. The Duke wore the ceremonial scarlet and blue uniform of the Royal Scots Greys.

Duke of Kent Claims Bride In Old York Cathedral

BY EDDY GILMORE

YORK, England (AP) — The dashing Duke of Kent today brought Miss Katharine Worsley — a country girl and a commoner — into the British royal family as his bride in Britain's wedding of the year.

Forty-six TV cameras recorded the service at the 1,334-year-old Anglican York Minster Cathedral, attended by Queen Elizabeth II and a glittering guest list of foreign royalty.

The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of York, Dr. William Ramsey.

It was the second consecutive wedding of a member of the royal family to a commoner. Princess Margaret, the queen's younger sister, married a commoner — Antony Armstrong-Jones — last year. The Duke of Kent, 25, is a cousin of the queen.

Rain and Hail Storm
Preliminaries were plagued by intermittent rain and the wedding service had hardly been concluded when a hailstorm broke.

Outside the church a crowd of about 10,000 suffered stoically through both the rain and the hail, determined to see as much as possible of the happy couple and the renowned guests.

The bride, a fair-haired former tomboy with a turned up nose, is the daughter of a well-to-do Yorkshire squire. She is 28, three years senior to the Duke.

Escorted by Father
The car that carried the smiling bride from her home in the near-by village of Hovingham arrived three minutes late. Her father, Sir William Worsley, escorted her up the aisle as the choir sang a hymn.

Her wedding dress was of gossamer white silk gauze with an iridescent thread. It had a close-fitting bodice with a small ruffled collar and long tight sleeves fastened with tiny buttons. Her veil was of silk tulle, held by a diamond bandeau. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The duke wore the ceremonial scarlet and blue uniform of the Royal Scots Greys. He greatly resembles his late father, who was killed in a World War II air crash.

Cameras Record Scene
Britain's two television networks had cameras everywhere to bear on the proceedings — 35 to record the scenes outdoors and 11 inside the cathedral.

There were three separate processions of guests. Princess Margaret — expecting a baby in the autumn — and her husband were in the second group. Margaret looked happy in a pale blue satin dress with a matching coat, a tulle hat in a darker shade of blue, white shoes and gloves. She carried a white bag.

Queen Elizabeth wore a dress and coat of lilac ribbon satin with a hat of lilac organza.

Prince Charles Attends
She entered the cathedral flanked by her husband, Prince Philip, and her oldest child, Prince Charles — heir-apparent to her throne.

It was the first time 12-year-old Charles, who is Prince of Wales, had been permitted to walk in line with his mother. This was a tribute to the increasing responsibilities of his position.

The marriage service was read by the Archbishop of York.

The duke gave the responses in a firm, clear voice.

Miss Worsley's voice was low and almost inaudible, but it did not falter.

Heads Bowed
The Duchess of Kent, mother of the bridegroom and aunt of the queen, sat with bowed head as the couple were pronounced man and wife.

She has announced she will now revert to the title of Princess Marina. This title derives from her birth as a member of the Greek royal family.

Flared Skirts Emphasized at California Show

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trumpet, Madam? or firecracker, mesa, mobile?

Gibberish? Just fashion talk about flared skirts.

California designers are emphasizing them during 1961 fall market week, under way here.

The California Fashion Creators, an association of 385 manufacturers, have caused the most comment with vibrant colors — ranging from deep chocolate to deep pink and that old standby, black.

The silhouette California designers seem to prefer is characterized by new skirt widths — a flare by any other name is still a flare — and lengths a bit longer.

Bold Colors
In general, there is the typical

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

LOSING MIDDLE NAME

A few months ago you wrote that a woman's middle name disappears when she marries. I wish you would explain why. Why bother to have middle names at all? This is the first time I have ever disagreed with your answer and I suppose it is because I just don't understand. Suppose I was born Judith Marguerite Prescott and I married John William Brown.

Louise Davis Answers:
You must realize that you also lost the Prescott when you married. You became Mrs. John William Brown and no doubt your friends call you Judith (or Judy) and not Judith Marguerite as though it were one hyphenated casual styling and bold use of color for which southern California designers are known.

Though California only produces about 15 per cent of all ready-to-wear goods, CFC spokesmen claim California styles are gaining recognition rapidly. They boast that Los Angeles someday will challenge Paris and New York as a major fashion center.

"We predict that in 50 years our annual sales volume will be approximately $1.3 billion, double what it is today," says CFC president Richard R. Woodward.

"It's the psychology of California," is how CFC fashion director Marjorie Carne explains what makes California designs distinctive. Influences? — the sun, the ocean, Hollywood, outdoor living, the easy way of life.

Your Problems

Kids Fighting in Back Seat Need Paddling on Back of Seat

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is there any solution, short of murder, to get two kids to stop fighting in the back seat of a car?

Last summer we took our two children on a 600-mile auto trip. When we got home both my husband and I were on the brink of a nervous breakdown. The girl is ten and the boy is five.

They behave reasonably well at home but whenever we get out on the open road I know we're in for it. We've tried color books, games, toys, favorite foods and the numerous suggestions our friends have offered. It works for about 15 minutes and then they start to argue and pinch each other, and the hitting and crying begins.

We are planning another cross-country trip soon and I am dreadfully tired. Please give me some advice that will work — M.J.C.

Dear M.J.C.: Your children will continue to work you over. So long as they know they can get away with it. Toys, color books and games are not nearly so exciting as a child's game called "Let's aggravate Our Parents."

Before you set out for the next trip let them know that no more foolishness will be tolerated. Explain that the first fight-like sound heard from the back seat will be handled this way: Dad will pull out to the side of road. Mom will spank one and Dad will spank the other — and the procedure will be repeated as often as necessary.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago I jumped on the cheating merry-go-round and I can't get off.

My wife is boring and we haven't seen eye to eye on anything in years. I turned to a gentle and soothing woman who works in my office. Her placid demeanor hid a frightening combination of neuroses. I've nursed her through razor blades, sleeping pills and fits of depression. She uses me as a psychiatrist because she's afraid to see a real one. If I say goodbye she threatens to bring out the barbiturates again.

I've offered to marry her but she is afraid of the guilt which might result from "breaking up a marriage." So where does this leave me? — Carousal

Dear Carousal: If you want to help the girl, give her the names of two psychiatrists and tell her to take her choice. Then get out of her life. She'll feel better when she stops seeing you — and you'll feel better, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A very close buddy of mine went steady with a cool chick for several months. They broke up three weeks ago. I asked the guy if it was O.K. for me to date her.

Appleton High School Graduates Relax in Island Paradise Thursday

Jeff Martin, Lynne Gmeiner, Pam Sprowl and William Caesar made the transition from graduation gowns to party garb for the event at Riverview Country Club. They are sitting in front of an "Island Paradise" hut on the stage at the club. Below, a cool and refreshing soft drink really hit the spot with these party-goers. Girls, from left, are Coleen McGuire, Darlene Schultz and Dawn Elsner. Their escorts are Thomas Eisch, Frank Faubel and Edward Giles.

"Island Paradise" was the theme of the after-graduation party for Appleton High School seniors Thursday at Riverview Country Club. Spartan Hi-Y Club of Appleton YMCA was sponsoring group.

Turk Hi-Y members served refreshments and Thor Hi-Y members had the clean-up detail.

After partying at Riverview, the students, with diplomas in hand, journeyed to Appleton Elks Club for breakfast and a post-dance party.

How Good it feels to kick off the shoes and just relax and review some of the day's happenings. First it was an awards program at the high school, then graduation and finally the big semi-formal dance at Riverview Country Club for Appleton High School's graduating seniors. From left are Douglas Hahn, Sharon Flood, Sandy Bogenschütz and Dennis Wastlet.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schultz and daughter Sandra, who live near Little Lake Butte des Morts, entertained at a cocktail party for Sandra's classmates at Appleton High School after graduation ceremonies Thursday. Standing around the buffet table are Richard Sensenbrenner, Susan Doerfler, Larry Schulze, Miss Schultz, Mary Ann Loerke and Raymond Maroszek.

Newlyweds To Live in New York

Calvary Lutheran Student Chapel, Madison, was the setting at 7:30 p.m. Saturday for the marriage of Miss Marlene Klotzbuecher and Robert Suellflow. The Rev. Walter Wegener officiated at the double ring nuptial rite which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Klotzbuecher, route 1, Manawa, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Suellflow, Oshkosh.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, was attended by Miss Linann Udelhoven, Madison, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Eastling, Manawa, and Miss Barbara Poman, Madison. The bride's cousin, Miss Karen Pidge, Milwaukee, was junior bridesmaid.

The bridegroom chose his brother, James, as best man. David Klotzbuecher, brother of the bride, and E. A. Prieve and Thomas Eggers, Madison, were groomsmen.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately after the ceremony.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will travel to Ulua, N. Y., where Mr. Suellflow will be employed by General Electric Co.

The bride graduated from Little Wolf High School and Madison General Hospital Nursing School. She has been employed at Madison General Hospital. Mr. Suellflow is a graduate of Oshkosh High School and the University of Wisconsin.

Low-Cal Barbecues

With the barbecue season in full broiled peaches (use fresh or swing, what can a dieter do? canned halves, sprinkle with poor thing, she faces mounds of brown sugar and spit until hamburger rolls and potato chips brown.)

Since most of us are weight-watchers these days, a thoughtful hostess solves the dilemma of extras from deviled eggs to around low-calorie dishes. Happily, such fare can have as much appeal as the calorie-loaded. See for yourself.

Basic Barbecue Menu 1: Grilled lamb steak; eggplant a la Grecque (wrap eggplant chunks in foil with penicillin slivers, chopped, green pepper, seasoning to taste, and enough tomato sauce to moisten—grill 25 minutes); bean-sprout salad tossed with dieter's French dressing; melon of choice.

Menu 2: Spitted sirloin roast; corn roasted in husks and served with bacon salt, instead of butter (it's a taste thrill); cole slaw made with low-cal mayonnaise.

President Has Not Told People Whole Story

Nobody Knows What Went on at Talks With Khrushchev

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy by his television address has left many members of Congress puzzled. What did he really tell Soviet Premier Khrushchev? Is the United States now committed to go to war over the defense of West Berlin? Did Mr. Kennedy threaten war, or did he imply that America would not take any military steps if the Soviet Union makes a peace treaty with East Germany and leaves the matter of allied access to West Berlin up to the East Germans?

The president was abstract and general in his statements on the air. He did not reveal exactly what he said or what Mr. Khrushchev told him on these vital issues.

Mr. Kennedy, moreover, didn't tell the American people on Tuesday night about the two memoranda on the Berlin, disarmament and nuclear test problems which Mr. Khrushchev brought to the conference. Only after news dispatches from Bonn disclosed this on Wednesday did the State Department confirm that such memoranda had been given to Mr. Kennedy.

No New Aims
In his television address, Mr. Kennedy said that "no new aims were stated in private that have not been stated in public on either side."

Who is to be the judge of the meaning of that statement, especially when there is no record available even to congress on what was said by either Mr. Kennedy or Mr. Khrushchev? If nothing new was stated and, as Mr. Kennedy now says, "no major decisions were either planned or taken," then what were the several hours of private discussion about? Why was the trip undertaken?

The president gave as his reason that he wanted to find out firsthand what Mr. Khrushchev thinks. He did not care to rely on what his ambassadors or what President Eisenhower told him after many years of experience with the Soviets. Also, Mr. Kennedy says he wished to "present our views directly, precisely, realistically, and with an opportunity for discussion and clarification."

No Details
Yet hardly any details of what went on during that "discussion" have thus far been revealed. If Mr. Kennedy says he sought to state America's position "precisely," it is important that the Congress be told just what those "precise" positions are today. The few members of the House or Senate who were "briefed" on Tuesday afternoon at the White House learned little more than what was said by Mr. Kennedy in his television address.

The president added to the mystery of why the meeting with the Soviet premier was ever undertaken when he said in his Tuesday night speech: "Neither of us was there to dictate a settlement or to convert the other to a cause, or to concede our basic interests."

One wonders now whether the president really felt beforehand, too, that there was no use trying to "convert" the Soviet leader to a belief in peace — or anything else.

Was Discussed
It is evident, however, that the issue of peace or war was discussed. In fact, there is a hint or threat of possible war in the following section of Mr. Kennedy's speech:

"But our most sober talks were on the subject of Germany and Berlin. I made it clear to Mr. Khrushchev that the security of Western Europe and, therefore, our own security are deeply involved in our presence and our access rights to West Berlin, that those rights are based on law and not on suzerainty, and that we are determined to maintain those rights at any risk, and thus meet our obligation to the people of West Berlin, and their right to choose their own future."

"Mr. Khrushchev in turn presented his views in detail and his presentation will be the subject of future communications, but we are not seeking to change the present situation. A binding German peace treaty is a matter for all who were at war with Germany, and we and our allies cannot abandon our obligations to the people of West Berlin."

Soviet Intention
Does this mean that while the Allies are naturally advocating no change "in the present situation," they are fully aware that the Soviets intend to sign a peace treaty with East Germany, thereby passing the responsibility to that country for handling "access rights" to West Berlin?

Mrs. Willis Van Horn, left, Appleton, past president of the Wisconsin Congress of Parents and Teachers, flashes a big smile as she presents a life membership in the Wisconsin Association of PTAs to Ara Call, who has been active for many years in Appleton PTA work and is leaving the city soon. Mrs. Call is in center.

There are rumors already that while Mr. Kennedy made no "concessions," he gave the impression that the Allies would not go to war merely over the signing of a peace treaty between the Soviets and East Germany. This impression, if conveyed by Mr. Kennedy, could have caused Mr. Khrushchev to do his "dancing" stunt in Moscow on his return there. But then, it will be asked, what was meant by the firm statement in the president's speech that the Allies "are determined to maintain those rights at any risk and thus meet our obligation to the people of West Berlin?"

Overt Act
The contradiction may be due to a desire on the president's part not to meet the issue militarily until an overt act by East Germany challenges Allied rights in West Berlin.

Meanwhile, Congressional committees will not have the opportunity to interrogate the president in the same comprehensive way they could cross-examine a secretary of state at the Capitol. Although Mr. Kennedy conducted MENASHA—The pitching of Bill Bolom and Dick Wahlgren highlighted action in the Twin City Industrial Softball League Thursday night as Banta retained first place with a 5-1 victory over Soo Line.

Wahlgren allowed two hits in chalking up the victory for Banta. The winners had eight hits, including Henry Horn's homer. Al Fredrickson was the losing hurler.

The Ramblers kept right on Banta's heels with an 8-0 victory over the Marathon Packagers.

Bolom authored the whitewash job as he gave up only two safeties. He fanned 11.

The Ramblers collected 10 hits, and, after getting a 1-0 lead in the first, scored two runs in the third, fifth and sixth and a final marker in the seventh.

Dykes Lodges Protest Squabble Enlivens Tiger-Indian Game

BY DAVE DILES
DETROIT (AP) — The Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers are fighting for first place in the American League and they have the umpires in the middle of the squabble.

Managers Jimmie Dykes of the Indians and Bob Scheffing of the Tigers were storming at the men in blue in Thursday night's doubleheader at Tiger Stadium, and, for Dykes' part, the battle is not over.

"I doubt if I'll win the protest," Dykes admitted, "but I never had a more legitimate squawk in my life."

The baseball games, two of the tightest battles in the race so far, were divided. Cleveland took the opener 1-0, while Detroit won the nightcap 2-1. The Tiger victory snapped Cleveland's 10-game winning streak.

But most of the excitement came in the eighth inning of the nightcap, and it kept 48,550 fans howling for 15 minutes.

The Indians trailed 2-1 and Woodie Held led off with a single. Bubba Phillips struck out and Bob Hale was sent to pinch hit for Frank Funk, who was working in relief in the second game.

Hale sent a bounce to second baseman Jake Wood, whose throw to shortstop Chico Fernandez forced Johnny Temple.

Rocks With Jeers
When umpire Larry Napp called Hale safe at first on Fernandez' relay, the stadium rocked with jeers, Detroit players rushed at Napp and Manager Scheffing bolted from the dugout. While the argument was going on, Hale lit out for second base. Catcher Mike Roarke tagged him. Napp ruled that Hale was out.

Scheffing deftly moved back to the Detroit dugout as Dykes leaped out of the Cleveland dugout.

Dykes' argument was that no play could be made since Scheffing and his coaches were on the playing field. Napp argued that time had not been called. Scheffing did not need to argue any more. The argument raged on for 15 minutes while Dykes, his coaches and players bellowed at first one umpire then another.

The two clubs resume their battle tonight at the same arena.

NEENAH—St. Mark won, 11-8, over Methodist in the Neenah Church Softball League Wednesday.

St. Mark scored six runs in the first inning and then coasted home behind the hurling of Gib Mitchell.

St. Thomas won its first game of the season as it turned back Presbyterian, 17-9, Don Althaus led the St. Thomas offense with two hits, including a home run.

St. Thomas scored in every inning but the seventh.

Fox Valley Cab Girls Nine Wins

Fox Valley Cab posted a 22-10 win over Valley Iron in an Appleton Recreation Department Girls Fast-Pitch Softball League game Wednesday night. The Raddyklo-watt-Saber Jets game was postponed.

Shirley Harp swatted four hits in the 23-safety Fox Valley Cab (1-1) offense. Mina Dee had three for Valley Iron (0-2).

First Showdown for Vaulters Features Meet of Champions

HOUSTON (AP) — The Meet of Champions — a track meet with stars aplenty — puts several national and world records in danger today.

The long entry list includes five performers who have world records either in their pockets or pending certification. There are even seven Olympians from three countries and five collegiate champs entered.

The chances of breaking a world record are strong — especially in the pole vault where Don Bragg, the current champ, meets his heir apparent, George Davies, in their first showdown.

Bragg has his vault of 15 feet 9 1/4 inches in the book now. Davies, a sophomore at Oklahoma State, has a vault of 15 feet 10 1/4 inches pending.

Ralph Boston, the Tennessee State lad with a broad jump record of 27 feet 1 1/2 inch pending; John Thomas of Boston University, holder of the high jump record; and Don Styrone of Southern Illinois are the other record performers in the meet.

Four Former Cagers Indicted on Charges of Conspiracy, Bribery

Hogan Releases Names of 2 More Accused Players

NEW YORK (AP) — It may be another three months before the investigation into the still-growing college basketball scandal—which now counts 31 players, 17 schools and 40 games—is completed, Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan said today.

Four former players, previously named as co-conspirators, were indicted Thursday on charges of conspiracy and bribery. At the same time, Hogan released the names of two new players covering one more game alleged to be involved in the revelations of point-shaving that have stretched from coast-to-coast.

The newly accused players, according to Hogan, were Jack Rose, 23, captain of the Connecticut basketball team a year ago; and Ray Stanley, 23, a recent graduate of the University of North Carolina.

Four Indicted

Their names came up as Dave Budin, 28, former Brooklyn College star; Jerry Vogel, 24, of the Bronx, N.Y.; and Dan Quindazzi, 24, of Yonkers, N.Y., both former Alabama players; and Lou Brown, 22, of Jersey City, N.J., were indicted on charges of conspiracy and bribery. All four had been named previously in the investigation which began in March as co-conspirators in indictments of Aaron Wagman and Joseph Hacken, both of New York.

Both Rose and Stanley were granted immunity for their testimony. Bail was set at $10,000 each for Vogel and Budin and at $500 for Quindazzi. Brown was paroled. All four were released pending trial, date of which has not been set.

gle produced one and Veda Pinson's single added two more.

Cincinnati got another in the fifth on Wally Post's double and another single by Coleman. That was enough to give the victory to Jim Maloney, now 4-2, who needed help after the Braves opened up in the seventh.

After Spahn left for a pinchhitter, the Reds bombed Mo Drabowsky for four runs in the sixth. Gene Freese drove in three of them with his 11th home run of the season. Coleman followed with his homer.

Maloney pitched a 9-inning shutout for the Reds. He struck out four batters and walked one. He pitched a 9-inning shutout for the Reds. He struck out four batters and walked one. He pitched a 9-inning shutout for the Reds. He struck out four batters and walked one.

Former professional baseball players often become umpires. And, several weeks ago, there was a story about a onetime pro umpire who signed a contract as a player.

Drew

But, Three-I League umpire Jim Duncan is a real rare bird in the balls-and-strikes business. He's a card-carrying member of both the Professional Golfers Association (PGA) and a pro umpires' organization.

Duncan, who worked the Fox Cities Foxes last home stand, has what's known in baseball as a "big strike zone." He stands 6-foot-5 and weighs 170 pounds "soakin' wet."

It's not the hit-and-miss umpiring that keeps him thin, Jim said last weekend. "I've been this skinny all my life." Umpires are supposed to be as unobtrusive as possible in their standard black uniforms but it's hard for a 6-5, 170-pounder not to be noticed.

Duncan is in his second season of umpiring. He worked in the Class D Midwest League last season and then went into instructional League ball in the fall. He worked over 50 games in the Los Angeles Dodgers camp this spring.

A Brooklyn native who now resides in Florida, Duncan has been a teaching pro for golf clubs in Rochester, N. Y., and Philadelphia. His tournament wins were confined to "a few local tournaments." He once had 30 straight rounds of 72 or better. He's given lessons to several baseball personalities.

Though most of his work is at night, Jim hasn't been playing much golf this summer. He'll be glad to play with any Fox Cities residents who are interested the next time he's in town.

"But I'm in no shape to give anybody strokes," he smiles. Double-pro Duncan admits to being 35 years old.

His partner here last week, off-season artist George Sosnak, said that the Foxes provide 3-1 umpires with "the best dressing quarters in the league. The dressing room is the biggest and cleanest here and we even have enough towels."

(The fact that Foxes General Manager Bob Willis is a former minor league umpire probably has a lot to do with this.)

Foxes' Manager Earl Weaver uses an unorthodox shift when Des Moines' second baseman Gene Hassell is batting against his club. He stations second baseman "Pho" Anthony right at the bag and shortstop Dick Yenchu almost at a deep third base. The outfield is pulled in.

Weaver formerly played with the 32-year-old Hassell. In his appearances against the Foxes so far, Gene's been hitting the ball right at Anthony. He's batting just .115 for his first 52 trips in the 3-1.

Sheboygan's Jerry Hummertsch was involved in a freak accident while warming up a fellow Eau Claire Braves pitcher recently. The former Sheboygan North athlete, who started the season with Cedar Rapids, was struck behind the ear by a pitch.

He was hospitalized for X-rays and observation and then released. He marked his return to duty with a 4-hit win over St. Cloud. Before Cedar Rapids optioned Jerry, Manager Jimmy Brown punned this praise about the Sheboyganite's speed: "Hummertsch can reach him that ball through there."

A guy who was once a real Goodland Field favorite, Chuck Oertel of the early-1950 Appleton Papermakers, ran into a double play after hitting a 2-bagger for Rochester of the Class AAA International League this spring.

Baltimore farmhand Oertel doubled off Buffalo's Ruben Gomez. When a throw to the plate was wide Oertel slid into third base, assuming that Ron Samford had scored. Samford, standing just off third, was tagged and so was Oertel in a game-ending run-down with Chuck legging it back to second.

Foxes Manager Earl Weaver says he can't understand why major leaguers like Jackie Jensen of the Red Sox are so nervous about flying. "I'm much more nervous making road trips in station wagons, as we do, than flying. Taking three wagons, we have three times as great a chance for an accident as we did last year in one bus," Weaver also pointed out.

Wilson, managed by 1959 Foxes' pilot Jack McKeon, led the Class B Carolina League by three games at last report.

Four Former College basketball players flank two detectives as they are booked in a New York police station on charges of conspiracy and bribery Thursday. From left are; Jerry Vogel, former University of St. Paul took over sole possession of first place in the Fraternal Softball League Thursday night with a 7-1 victory over UCT while the VFW Bar faded before Ponds, 11-6.

In other games, Killoren Co. swept by the Pizza Palace, 17-6 and Heinie's Bar blanked Party Port, 4-0.

Don Schroeder limited the UCT to just three hits and had a shut-out until the last inning when the losers scored their lone tally. St. Paul collected 11 safeties off the offerings of losing hurler Connie Knauss. Ken Hinz and Bob Schultz of St. Paul had triples.

Seven in Second Ponds scored seven runs in the second inning and then counted single tallies in the third, fourth, sixth and seventh in the win over previously unbeaten VFW Bar. The losers scored all six runs in the last of the second. Jerry Schmidt was the winning pitcher.

Arlin Burt hurled a four-hitter for Heinie's to pace the victory over the Party Port. He struck out seven. Heinie's counted a pair of runs in the second and had single tallies in the fourth and fifth Ken Harrmann and Burt had two hits each to lead Heinie's seven-hit attack. John Gabrielson was the loser.

Dick Frank of the Pizza Palace hit a grand slam homer but it was not enough to cope with the 17-run barrage of Killoren Co. Jim Mielke of Killoren hit for the circuit. Dick Lundgren was the winning pitcher.

Mullen's Tips Bud's, 8-7, in Softball Loop

KAUKAUNA—Mullen's evened its City Softball League mark at 2-2 Wednesday night by scoring an 8-7 win over Bud's Phillips 66 behind the 4-hit pitching of Jerry Vande Loo.

The second game saw Dick and Betty's Bar post a 9-8 win over Peter's Bar. Mullen's did all its scoring in two innings, getting four runs in the first game and four in the seventh. The losers scored three in the first one in the fourth and three in the sixth. Eight walks helped the winners in their 7-hit effort off Jerry Hennes.

Tom Resch was the winning hurler for Dick and Betty's while Cliff Hinkens was the loser.

Spahn Will Get Extra Rest, Says Dressen

Homer Record Does Little to Lift Braves' Spirits

CINCINNATI (AP)—The four successive home runs in a single inning by Milwaukee slugger Thursday did little to lift the spirits of the sagging Braves.

Manager Charlie Dressen was more concerned with his ace left-hander Warren Spahn who failed to go the distance in taking his fifth licking against six triumphs.

Dressen had started the 40-year-old Spahn with only three days of rest in hopes of stopping the Reds who took over the top spot in the National League once more with the triumph.

After it was over, Dressen, who was trying to recall whether any team ever hit six homers in a game and still lost, said that Spahn would get an additional 24 hours of rest between starts. That depended upon the Braves getting some pitching help.

More Pitchers "He'll get more rest—we'll get more pitchers," insisted Dressen who had a conference scheduled today with general manager John McHale in Chicago where the Braves were set to open a series with the Cubs.

As for the homer sluggers, Joe Adcock, who hit the third one in the record line, said, "We'd have been better off if we would have had some guys on base."

Adcock said the players weren't aware of any record making. "It wasn't even mentioned. All we were interested in was getting some hits and getting back into the ball game."

Long ball marks are now new to Adcock. He hit four homers and a double in a single game in Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, he socked the only homer ever hit over the leftfield fence there, and the only drive to land in the left center-field bleachers of the old Polo grounds in New York.

Mathews and Aaron also have participated in three consecutive homers in a single innings. They teamed up with Wes Covington to do it at Brooklyn and with Bobby Thomson for a another trio performance in Chicago.

Frank Thomas recalled duplicating the three-straight feat in MENASHA — River Street Plant moved into a tie for second place in the Marathon Softball League Wednesday evening with a 10-3 trouncing of Carton Finish.

Bob Marsh belted three hits and was the winning pitcher as Neenah Office defeated the Trainees, 9-6. Dale Johnson was the loser for the Trainees, who also suffered their first loss of the year.

Pittsburgh. "It was with Dale Long and Jerry Lynch, I believe," he said.

"I wasn't thinking of any record," said Thomas who capped the record showing. "All I wanted to do was get a hit. I never consciously go for the long ball."

"But that's the way our luck has been. You get six homers and still lose. It can't go on much longer."

Ralph Vindhurst hurled a 4-hitter for Power Company, giving up a run in the sixth on a homer by Gene Schlender. Schlender also doubled. Leonard Tessen pitched for the losers.

Miller Electric pulled into a third place deadlock with Woolen Mills by posting an 18-4 triumph over the co-runners-up. Miller's Emil Huss tossed a 5-hitter. "Ole" Lorenz and Milton Schwandt, Woolen Mills' pitchers, yielded 16 hits.

Western Condensing clubbed AAL No. 2, 12-1, on a 3-hitter by Kenneth Selig, who also sparked at the plate. Archie Rader swatted three hits for Western Condensing.

Bill Exempting Out-of-State Boats Passes

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly voted 83-6 Thursday in passing a Senate bill exempting out-of-state racing boats from the registration law when they are entered in official races in Wisconsin.

The measure now goes to Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

Considerable embarrassment, and anger, developed last year when racers from other states discovered they had to pay the Wisconsin registration fee even if their boats were registered elsewhere.

ly passed by the legislature Thursday at the instigation of Sen. William Draheim and Assemblyman David Martin.

He also paid tribute to former Sen. Gordon Bubolz, Appleton, as head of the association that raised the park funds and Frank Shattuck, Neenah, one of the major contributors.

He said Red Bird would come to be a Wisconsin symbol for all conservationists, since he was in his time a symbol of resistance to change who apparently foresaw the encroachment of the exploiters and tried to oppose the move.

'True Heart'
Chairman Beaver said Red Bird was and is a symbol to the Winnebago Indians. "He had a great, true heart," Beaver said. "He had enough courage to live what he believed in even unto death."

He explained the circumstance of Red Bird's death. History draws a stark picture of a brave man sacrificing himself to prevent a war and then dying in prison because he could not be caged any more than a wild bird. However, Beaver explained it was a Winnebago custom in connection with a murder to have the family of the murderer prepare gifts and bind one of its members. The gifts and the sacrifice would be led to the home of the victim's family while the first family sang a song of sacrifice and atonement. The victim's home would be circled four times and, usually, the bereaved family would forgive the murderer's family and the two families would feast and peace would prevail.

Red Bird Offers Self
In the Red Bird incident, two Winnebago miscreants were taken by the Army for a minor offense and jailed at Ft. Snelling. When the Army moved, it took the prisoners with it. In the journey they died and a revenge was called to decide on council.

Although Red Bird dissented, he was chosen, because of his authority, to carry out the decisions of the council. White men were killed and then the true facts were learned. Red Bird, making his peace with himself, gave himself up determined to die to rectify the wrong perpetrated by his people and to prevent a war.

Beaver said the primitive man was taught by never changing nature and the best, like Red Bird, measured himself with it. Beaver made an "appeal to your hearts" to understand the Winnebagos who are caught in the transition between the new and the old — deprived of the old and unable to find the new.

Fought for Freedom
He recalled the humiliation surrounding the bigoted agitation over the burial of Cpl. Mitchell Red Cloud Jr., a grandson of a Winnebago chief and a Congressional Medal of Honor winner in the Korean War.

"The Indian has always been on a par with the white man,"

Dr. LeRoy Luberg Speaker as 597 Receive Diplomas Thursday

The largest class in the history of Appleton High School was graduated Thursday night, with diplomas going to 597 seniors.

Speaker was Dr. LeRoy Luberg, dean of students at the University of Wisconsin. Student speakers were Stephanie Downs, Peter Behr, Barbara Bradley, Scott Miller and David Prosser.

"We are living in a time when the emphasis is on conformity. It is true that some conformity is necessary. But we have to be aware of the deadening process which befalls the organization man," Luberg said.

Ove Others
"You are here tonight, not only because of what you have done, but because of what others have done for you. We owe so much to those who have gone before us," he stated.

This is also a time of sacrifice, the speaker went on. Just as others have made sacrifices for us today, the present generation must be prepared to make sacrifices for the future.

"Whatever you do in life, be the best, whatever you are," the speaker concluded.

The five class speakers presented a symposium on "Testing Our Time."

Age of Anxiety
"This is an age of anxiety in which we live," said Stephanie Downs, first speaker.

"We have to be influenced by the positive. In this way we can disprove that this is an age of anxiety," she added.

"The Role of Science" was discussed by the second speaker, Peter Behr.

"Science surrounds us in our daily life. But we can not live by science alone. Religion must have a place in our life. So must music, literature and the arts," Behr declared.

Barbara Bradley spoke on the role of education in American society.

"What should be the purpose," he said, "in the first ranks of the Army."

He recalled that a whole company of Winnebagos was recruited during the Civil War to keep the peace in the Northwest and that four Wisconsin Winnebagos had served so well with Gen. William T. Sherman, an old Indian fighter, that he gave one of the four his name.

"Bones of Winnebagos," Beaver said, "are scattered among white man's bones all over the world where they have purchased freedom for all people."

As Banta indicated, Beaver said the statue should serve as a reminder of the need for tolerance.

of education in America?" she asked.

"Education should center on three things: making us into adults, teaching us citizenship and preparing us to make a living," she affirmed. "We must combat fear and apathy towards intellectualism."

America has the highest standard of living in the world, but it is also probably the most insecure nation there is, Scott Miller said in his talk.

"In order to find security we are becoming a nation of joiners. We are so caught up in the idea of belonging that we are losing our identification as individuals," he declared.

Last speaker of the five, David Prosser, stated that freedom was disappearing both here and abroad.

"We are becoming complacent. And complacency here will lead to communism abroad. We cannot afford to be complacent, or freedom will disappear," Prosser said.

Helbie Presents
The class was presented by H. H. Helbie, high school principal, and was accepted by Royce Kurtz, superintendent of schools. This marked Kurtz's first appearance at an Appleton High School commencement.

Diplomas were presented by Victor Summich, secretary of the Appleton Board of Education. The Rev. Richard C. Schroeder, assistant pastor of the First Congregational Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Musical selections included a duet "Spartina gol Violin and Piano," played by Peter Tilly, violin, and Pamela Wulk, piano; "You'll Never Walk Alone," sung by Karen Christen accompanied by Sharon Gutreuter, and "Cantata for Flute and Oboe" played by Ellen Larson accompanied by Beverly Borsche.

Peter Kafura, student council president, led the salute and pledge of allegiance. Barbara Hoepfner played the organ processional and recessional.

Alarm Frightens Off Would-be Burglar

LITTLE CHUTE — A burglar alarm frightened off a would-be thief Thursday night after he broke into Van's Oil Co. station, 309 E. North St., about 11:30 p.m. Peter Van Zeeland, the station owner, lives next door. He heard the alarm and saw the car in which the thief fled.

Apparently the burglar broke the restroom window in the rear of the station and then set off the alarm when he tried to pry open the door to the station office. Nothing was taken at the station, Van Zeeland said.

Man Blasts His Foot With Gun

Pat Grapengelser, 20, 1520 Viola St., was hospitalized early this morning with a gunshot wound in his left foot. Appleton police said Grapengelser shot himself about 1:35 a.m. today.

One toe of his left foot was removed by the 20-gauge shotgun blast and another was injured. Larry's Ambulance took him to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Largest Class Graduates at Oshkosh High

561 Seniors Hear Outstanding Pupils Present Symposium

OSHKOSH — The last class to graduate from the present Oshkosh High School received diplomas Thursday at a 5 p.m. commencement at the Jackson Drive Athletic Field. It was the largest class if OHS history, with 561 graduates. A new high school, located on the city's west side, will replace the present building next year.

Students were their own graduation speakers as five seniors, selected by the class, spoke on the topic "Youth Looks at Its Heritage." Speakers and their topics were Kristy Frank, "American Youth Accepts Its Heritage," Roger Ernst, "American Youth Creates Its Heritage," Jeffrey Yarney, "American Youth Accepts a World Heritage," Kyoko Michishita, "Our Foreign Student Compares Heritages," and Daniel Biehl, "Our Telephone Student Applies His Heritage."

Yarney was an exchange student to Sweden last year. Miss Michishita is an exchange student from Japan. Biehl was one of two students who finished his senior year by taking class over the telephone. Class president Robert Dahl presided.

The class was presented by Dr. Carl Traeger, high school principal. The invocation was given by the Rev. J. B. Windle, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church.

Diplomas were presented by members of the board of education. Music included selections by the OHS Band, James Croft directing, and the A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Fred Leist.

Chamber Group Opposes Welfare Advisory Council

NEENAH — The state legislative action committee of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce has voiced opposition to a proposed bill which would create an advisory council for the Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute.

The council would be composed of the director of public welfare, superintendent of public instruction, state health officer, director of state board of vocational and adult education and two public members. Its job would be to advise the Institute on relations with private groups in mental health research.

No action was taken on a proposed bill which would provide that state policy guarantee equal rights to all persons regardless of race, color, creed or nationality.

Braves Sign Pitcher for Over $100,000

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves today paid a whopping bonus of more than $100,000 to sign 17-year-old Wade Blasingame of Fresno, Calif., one of the most sought-after schoolboy pitchers in the nation.

The sensational young left-hander hurled 20 straight victories without defeat for Roosevelt High School at Fresno this season, including three no-hitters, averaging 15 strikeouts per game.

Blasingame, 6-1 and 185 pounds, was signed to a 1961 contract with the Braves' Louisville club in the American Association and assigned immediately to Boise, Idaho, in the Class C Pioneer League.

Appleton High 'Ambassador' From Argentina Will Leave

Exchange Student Juan Scipioni Sad About Leaving Friends, 'Family'

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One of Appleton's most enthusiastic boosters walked down the aisle of Appleton High School Auditorium with both pride and sadness Thursday night as a graduating senior.

He is Juan Scipioni, 18, American Field Service exchange student from Mendoza, Argentina. He's proud to have a diploma from Appleton High School, but graduation night also marked the beginning of his goodbyes to his schoolmates, his other Appleton friends and his "adopted" family.

Juan starts his journey back to his own country June 25 with other exchange students in the area.

"This truly has been the happiest year in my whole life," said the young man whose eyes sparkled as he talked about the "wonderful" people in Appleton. He came up to the Post-Crescent editorial office on his own for an interview, with one purpose in his mind.

"I want to express my thanks to all the people in Appleton," he said as he flashed his attractive smile. "I want to publicly thank all the friends I've made and especially my American family and the teachers who have helped me so very much."

Juan has been living with the John R. Miller family, 431 E. Pershing St., since he arrived in town last Aug. 19.

"I'm grateful to my American parents for their understanding and love," Juan said in speaking of the Millers. "They treated me just like a real son and the whole family made me welcome."

At this point, Juan unconsciously proved his point when telephoning the Miller home for some information. As he talked with Mrs. Miller he called her "Mom."

People Friendly

As for Appleton, Juan said he "loves this town" and dislikes leaving it. The friendliness of the people constantly surprises him. "All I have to do is walk down College Avenue and people I don't even know say, 'Hi, Juan,' and it's a good feeling," he said.

His own home is metropolitan Mendoza, population 300,000, in the foothills of the Andes. It is the capital of Mendoza province, noted for its fine wines. Juan's father owns and operates a winery and vineyard there. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Juan Scipioni and he has three younger brothers, Raul, 16, Luis, 13, and Jorge, 11.

It's now the middle of winter in Argentina, Juan said, and if he goes back to his medical studies at the National University of Cuyo, he will start his second year in August, at mid-term. He graduated once before from secondary school, a military school, but at Appleton High he wore a cap and gown for the ceremony, a custom reserved only for universities in Argentina.

School in his native land, he pointed out, is all studying. There are no such things as extra-curricular activities, clubs, sports or athletic teams as here. Young people in his country have to go to separate clubs for sports and other activities.

May Come Back

Juan isn't sure he wants to pursue his medical studies. He thinks he'd rather come back to the United States for a college education in the field of foreign service. He's going to think it over first after he gets home. If there's a chance he can come back, he'll work awhile to earn the money for an American education and perhaps try for a scholarship.

He's positive about one thing—that the American Field Service is the best institution in the world for promoting peace. By being an exchange student he has met and talked with young people from 48 different countries during his four weeks of travel before coming to Appleton. He has had the chance to tell 26 groups in Appleton about his country and in return has learned many new customs, new thoughts and ideas.

He will go to Manitowoc June 25 for two days orientation and then travel with a busload of area foreign exchange students for four weeks through Illinois, Indiana, parts of the south and east to Washington, D. C. All 1,800 foreign students under the AFS program will meet in the capital again before returning to their homes. Juan will fly from Miami on his 19th birthday, July 27, for Argentina.

"I came here as an ambassador of my own country," he said with a grin, "but now I go back as an ambassador of the United States. And you know—I think I will cry a little when I leave Appleton."

Ask Injunction On Pickett Highway Job

OSHKOSH — An injunction against the Highway Commission and the Winnebago County Highway Committee in connection with the resurfacing of State 44 in Pickett is being asked of Circuit Judge H. F. Arps by Jasper G. Pickett, of Pickett.

Pickett contends that since 1915 he has maintained an ornamental iron fence in front of his home for a distance of 394 feet along the highway. He said the state and county highway groups contend that the fence is within the highway limits and that these groups have refused to include in their payment of damages to him the cost for moving the fence.

Pickett also declares that moving the fence would require cutting down 11 ornamental trees, for which the state also declines to pay damages.

He asks Judge Arps to assume jurisdiction of the issues involved in this highway project and to prevent the state from interfering with the property rights of Pickett without condemnation, and to compel the state and county highway groups "to comply with the constitutional guarantees of due process in taking of property."

Youth Held In Burglary Of Station

OSHKOSH—Charles Basiks Jr., 19, 832 Vine St., Oshkosh, was charged with burglary of the Erie Raugh filling station, 128 Algoma St., and Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane set preliminary hearing for 10.30 a.m. June 19. Basiks was jailed because he could not raise $1,000 bond.

An Oshkosh policeman stationed in the high school area to thwart possible acts of vandalism that might result from the high school graduation held earlier in the evening, saw smoke coming from the nearby filling station and called the fire department. About the same time another policeman noticed Basiks coming through the high school alley with many packs of cigarettes stuffed inside his shirt.

The policeman who spotted the fire noticed a cardboard replacing a window broken during a burglary last week had been removed. Firemen extinguished the fire.

65 Fox Cities Area Youths To Attend State Club Week

Gov. Nelson to Give Talk

At Annual Tree Planting Rites

Sixty-five 4-H Club members from five Fox Cities area counties will be attending state 4-H Club Week at the University of Wisconsin, Madison Monday through Friday.

A full round of events including tours, idea sessions talks, competition and panels are planned.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson will speak at the end of the first day's events at a tree dedication on 4-H knoll. "You and the Sixties," will be the title of a talk to be given by Mrs. Harry Hamilton, Madison Vocational School, and C. M. Ferguson, UW agriculture staff.

Special luncheons and recognition of friends of 4-H are planned. A section to discuss careers also is planned Thursday afternoon.

Chaperoning Waupaca County delegates will be Fred Ramthun and Mrs. Kathryn C. Tubbs, home agent, Kenn Beyer, Manawa, and Merna Preuss, Manawa, will perform in the state chorus. Members of the state band are Judy Paulson, Ogdensburg, and Joan Stephenske, Waupaca.

Mrs. George Brennand, secretary of Winnebago County Leaders Association, and Donald Tripp, farm and home development agent, will accompany the Winnebago County group. One junior leader Judy Weiss, Omro, and Ray Gauger, Neenah, are band and chorus members, respectively.

Campus Paper

Bonnie Goesser will work on the Campus Clover, 4-H Club Week newspaper, for the Caumet County Delegation. John Anheier, route 1, Hilbert, will be in bank and Susan Hacker, Brillion, will be in the chorus. Mrs. Harold Ort, club leader, and Charles Nikolai, 4-H Club agent, will chaperone the group.

Shawano County chaperones will be Mrs. Roger Beilke, Bowler, and Donald Schoedel, 4-H Club agent. Chorus delegate is Jacqueline Hoffman and Pamela Radtke, band. Mark Peterson, will compete in the state speaking contest. Curtiss Winterfeldt, Shiocton, and Jeanette G. Penske, home agent, will chaperone the Outagamie County delegates. James Koleske, Appleton, will compete in the state speaking contest. Band member will be Joan Yogerst.

Other youths going to club week include:

Men Face Morals Charge

'Wega Operator, Transient Arrested On Girl's Story

WAUPACA — Marvin Cain, 33, Stevens Point, operator of the Coffee Cup Restaurant in Weyauwega, asked for a preliminary hearing Thursday on two charges of rape involving a young girl.

He was held under $5,000 bail for a hearing Wednesday morning.

Mark Valentine, 34, a transient pipeline worker, was arrested in Dane County Wednesday night and will be returned to Waupaca to face a charge of having sexual intercourse with a child.

The two arrests resulted from a John Doe hearing Tuesday at which the girl named the two men.

Cain was arrested Wednesday afternoon at his Stevens Point home by Portage County sheriff officers.

Mr. and Mrs. Cain closed their Weyauwega restaurant next door to the police station Monday afternoon. Monday night the Weyauwega City Council authorized the city attorney and police chief to move to keep the place closed as a nuisance.

Lending Tills Of Federal FHA Run Dry

Home Loans Only
Type Available
Until New Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The lending tills of the Farmers Home Administration have run dry for all distressed farmers except those with emergency crop and properly losses from storms, floods and the like.

The agency was created years ago in the Agriculture Department to extend loans to farmers unable to get credit from other sources at reasonable rates. But it has been forced to turn down thousands of applications for aid in recent weeks because all but emergency funds have been exhausted.

Farm Loans

The situation has led Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., one of the strongest backers of this lending program, to appeal to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The FHA's major lending operation is in the field of farm operating loans. It already has exhausted $232 million authorized for use during the fiscal year ending July 1. It also has used the $31.9 million allowed it for farm ownership loans and the $3 million for soil and water conservation loans.

Applications received for farm operating loans in March were up 73 per cent over March last year. Reasons for this increased demand, officials said, are rising farm production costs, recent declines in farm income, need of many farmers for new equipment and adjustments in farming operations to keep abreast of technological developments. Also, they said, many farmers have used up their equities in obtaining loans from banks and other private lenders. The only place they can turn is to the FHA.

New Budget

Unless Congress takes emergency action, the FHA will be unable to make farm operating, farm ownership and conservation loans until Congress passes the Agriculture Department's appropriation bill for the new fiscal year beginning July 1.

There is about $40 million available nationally for home loans, Robert Wilms, local FHA manager, said. Wisconsin has 107 loans in process drawing on these funds. Four of the loans are from the Fox Cities area and total $36,400.

Children's Day Program Planned At Winneconne

WINNECONNE—Services will be held at 9:30 a.m. at the Baptist church. There will be a children's day program during the Sunday School hour at 10:30 a.m. Sunday evening Bible study is at 7:30 p.m.

Bible school at Allenville is from 9 to 12 noon Monday. Children are to meet at Winneconne Baptist Church by 8:30 a.m.

Services will be held at St. Paul Lutheran Church at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. Sunday School is at 9:30 a.m.

Sunday School teachers will meet at 8 p.m. Monday. Ushers Club meeting is at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

"A Heavenly Father and A Fatherly Father," will be the sermon topic of the Rev. James Fyfe at 9:30 a.m. at Presbyterian Church. There will be no church school until September. Vacation Bible school will continue during the coming week. Masses are held at St. Mary Catholic Church at 6:30, 7:30, 9 and 10:30 a.m.

Youth Takes Joyride On Motor Bike Being Stolen By Police

MENASHA—A 15-year-old Menasha boy took a short joyride on a motorbike Thursday after stealing it from behind the police station. A policeman apprehended the boy on Tayco Street, two blocks from the station.

The motorbike had been held behind the police station since it was found abandoned in weeds May 24 on the John Strange Paper Co. parking lot.

The boy also has admitted stealing a $115 electric wristwatch from a truck in December. The watch has been recovered.

Police Chief Peter P. Clark said the boy will appear at 3 p.m. Friday in Juvenile Court at Oshkosh.

Donald Wirth to Talk To Neenah Lions Club

NEENAH—Donald C. Wirth, general manager of Radio Station WENAM and president of the Wisconsin Broadcasters Association, will speak to the Neenah Lions Club at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, at the Valley Inn on controls governing the radio and television industry.

Installation of officers will be held by the Lions June 27. Annual awards will also be held and new members inducted Zeke Hart, Greenleaf, governor of Lions District 27-B, will be the speaker.

This is how the new $40,000 office building of Production Credit Association of Appleton will appear. It will be at 2213 N. Richmond St. Construction is scheduled to begin early in July and the building is expected to be ready for occupancy Nov. 1.

Plan $40,000 Office Building

Production Credit
Association to Move
From College Avenue

The Production Credit Association of Appleton is planning a new $40,000 office building at 2213 N. Richmond St., according to Manager Frank Klapper.

The association is an agricultural financial institution, and makes short term loans for farm equipment, livestock and crops.

Klapper said contracts for the 60-by-47-foot building will be let June 27. It is expected to be ready for occupancy Nov. 1.

The new offices will replace present quarters at 529 W. College Ave., where the Association has been located since 1945. There will be about three times as much room in the new offices.

Two persons will be added to the staff when the move is made, the manager said. There are seven on the staff now.

All offices will be on ground level. There will be a conference room and lounge in the basement. Architects for the building are Boettcher and Ginnow, Inc., Neenah.

Private Enterprise

The association now is a private enterprise, although it was started in 1934 as part of a federal agricultural financing program. Since 1951 it is entirely owned by farmers who have stock in it, Klapper said.

Its original office was started in Waupaca in 1934. In 1945 a branch office was established in Appleton, and eventually became

GOP to Scrutinize Future Candidates

Important Part of Eau Claire
Event, but Not Listed on Agenda

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

EAU CLAIRE—One of the important items of business for the Republican politicians of Wisconsin who will gather here Saturday for their annual convention is not listed on the formal convention program.

It is the scrutinizing of candidates, actual and potential, for state ticket positions in the 1962 election drive, which Republican workers are increasingly hopeful about winning.

Convention managers have put in speaking roles two men who already are courting local delegates for the 1962 gubernatorial endorsement, although they have not put their candidacies on the record thus far.

They are Philip Kuehn, the Whitefish Bay, Milwaukee County businessman who wore the party colors in the campaign against Democratic Gov. Gaylord Nelson last fall, and Jack B. Olson of Wisconsin Dells.

Olson is determined to run next year, and has been sorry for a year that he was persuaded to drop out of the contest with Kuehn for the 1960 nomination. Olson had announced his desire to run last year, but gave up the fight when it became evident that Kuehn had the backing of the majority of Republican convention delegates.

This year, Olson has created the impression that he has resolved to run in 1962, come what may—including another convention endorsement for Kuehn.

Such defiance of the organization's endorsement practices might create some resentment among the district and county leaders of the voluntary campaign.

His listing of Olson for a convention platform role is an omission from a list published in last evening's Post-Crescent.

Alderman Says Barkeeper Was One of Beaters

GREEN BAY (AP)—Alderman Robert Houle said from his hospital bed Thursday night that one of three men who beat him up earlier in the day was "a disgruntled tavernkeeper whose license is up for review."

A member of the committee which approves tavern permits, Houle said the man blamed him for lack of action on the application.

Houle said he attended a council committee meeting Wednesday night and dropped in at a restaurant for coffee. He said an argument developed with the trio and one of the men held him around the neck while the others kicked him. He suffered bruises and a broken knee.

Knowles will be sitting in the galleries, but there will be many friends booing him as a superior challenger to either Kuehn or Olson.

Knowles is not especially eager to run for governor. His ultimate goal is a seat in the U.S. senate, but he is not disposed to challenge Sen. Alexander Wiley for the 1962 nomination. He is expected to be "available" for the 1962 endorsement for governor, if the party wants him.

One close observer of organization politics explained the situation this way: "Kuehn and Olson will cut each other up so badly that the convention next year will look around for another candidate. That will party leaders, evidently prodded by Knowles, and he will accept by Jasper, virtually announced that they expected the aging senator to get another nomination without a challenge."

Oshkosh Pool Dedication Set Saturday Night

Swimming Show Will Be Featured at New Pollock Memorial

OSHKOSH—A YMCA swimming group and one from Oshkosh State College will be featured on the dedication program for the new Pollock Memorial Pool at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

A 15-minute concert by the Oshkosh High School Band will precede the dedication which will open with the invocation by the Rev. Paul Vanden Hogen of Lourdes Catholic High School.

Council Pres. Robert Stauffer will be master of ceremonies and will acknowledge the groups and persons who made the pool possible. Brian Kelly, pool manager, will introduce his staff and outline the rules for the pool's operation.

On the YMCA team to demonstrate progressive swimming skills are Gary Sanders, leader, Bob Schaeffer, Stuart Krause, Mike Henschel, Ricky Papp, Bill Schaefer, Dave Rapp, Lynn Ginkle, Jerry Roberts, Nancy Henschel, Sally Gill, Anita Baker, Bob Gill and Connie Clark.

The OSC team's part of the dedication includes a solo swimming act by Judy Brink, a quartet demonstration by Judy Bojarski, Marla Henschel, Judy Brink and Judy Gavinski, a "Panda Parade" act by girls from the college's campus school and a swimming duet by Judy Bojarski and Judy Brink.

A triple trio from South Park School will sing. The benediction will be by the Rev. Eugene Rapp of Emmanuel United Church of Christ.
